523 GRADUATES MARK FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF ALUMNI ASS'N

With 15 charter members and 13 past presidents in attendance, the Gettysburg High School Alumni Association celebrated its golden anniversary Thursday evening at the high school building with the largest gathering of graduates ever assembled by the organization. Attendance was announced as 523.

Specially honored for their "fore-sight and energy" were the charter members who had seats at the speakers' table. They were introduced individually and each responded briefly. The association presented the ladies with corsages and the men with pencils.

President Eugene R. Hartman presided during the evening and introduced the old grads representing most of the classes from 1886 whose lone representative was Mrs. Susan Troxell Dougherty. A score or more had graduated more than a half century ago. Reunion classes had spokesmen respond briefly as each was called upon.

"Open House" And Dance
The three-hour banquet program was followed by a tour of the building highlighted by a library display of class and team photos, old year books and copies of the Maroon and White and other mementoes of the early years of high school history here. One of the oldest items in the exhibit was the 1887 diploma of Miss Maggie Myers.

The annual alumni dance began at 10 p.m. in the gymnasium where guests joined the alumni and danced to old tunes and new by Howard Gale and his orchestra. The sym was elaborately decorated in gold and the school colors, maroon and white.

The charter members at the anniversary celebration were: Mrs. Jessie Easterday, Mrs. Sara Wilson Doll, Mrs. Pauline Rodgers, Mrs. Amanda Tawney McNeil, Mrs. Vergie Slentz, Mrs. Rose Plank Yeany, a former teacher here; Mrs. Carrie Dougherty, Mrs. Elsie Martin Robb, Miss Margaret McMillan, Miss Alice Black, Belle Scott, Roy Dougherty, Dr. D. Montfort Melchior and Rufus Weaver, who with Mrs. Doll were among the members of the class of 1902 there for their 50th anniversary.

Give Scholarship Awards
The program opened with the singing of the doxology and Dr. Harold Dunkelberger of the 20th reunion class gave the invocation. President Hartman presented a brief report and introduced the present officers. Group singing was led by Genevieve Cluck Slegal. Fred Herring, senior president, responded to Hartman's address of welcome.

The annual presentations of copies of the current edition of the Cannon-Ald, high school yearbook, were made by Gwen Bream and Patricia Bushey, editors of the publication.
Mrs. Guyon E. Buehler, class of '20, made the annual alumni scholarship awards of $15 and $10 in cash. The first prize went to Janet Musselman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Musselman, Orrtanna, and the second prize to Nancy Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sanders, Gettysburg.

Team of '22 Gives Trophy
Speaking for the football team of 1922, Arthur Buehler presented a trophy to William Williams and Clyde Cleveland, co-captains of the undefeated 1951 football team. They later turned the trophy over to Principal G. W. Lefever, who announced it will be placed in a trophy case being donated by the graduating class. Buehler introduced these members of the '22 team: Glenn L. Bream, Wilbur Weikert, Sylvester "Brownie" McKenrick, David Oyster, Ralph Fiesel, Jack Weikert, John Baschore, George Burnger and Marsby Little. He reviewed the '22 team's record and delivered congratulations from C. C. Bream Jr., absent captain of the '22 squad, to the '51 champions.

Early alumni introduced by President Hartman, not already mentioned, included: Miss Minnie Spangler, sole representative of the class of 1887 which originally numbered 10; Gertrude Hoffman and Miss Hattie Krauth, Miss Alice Williams and Roy Dougherty of the class of '96; Isabelle Griffith, class of '97; Mrs. Elsie Irwin, '01.
Miss Margaret McIlhenny responded for the class of '07 and Dan Skelly spoke for the four members of the 40th reunion class that numbered 18 at graduation.

Call Reunion Classes
William G. Weaver, a former alumni president, was spokesman for the class of '17 and pointed out the six in attendance included Mrs. Lloyd Hartman, mother of the toastmaster.
Dr. Charles Landis responded for the 14 members present from the original 51 in his class of 1922. Howard Robinson and 19 other members

Benner Will Give $10,000 To College

Gettysburg College will receive $10,000 under the will of Jesse E. Benner, retired Lancaster High School teacher who died May 10, the probate of the will reveals.

The money is to be used as the "Jesse E. Benner, '07 and Minerva E. Benner Scholarship Fund," according to the will and is to be used to aid "worthy students, particularly ministerial students." Mr. Benner, who was 73, graduated from the college in 1907 and taught for 25 years in the Lancaster schools.

GAS COMPANY PETITIONS PUC TO RAISE RATES

A new gas rate applicable to all classes of retail customers in the Gettysburg area, bringing with it substantial reductions for most classes of users, was filed Thursday afternoon in Harrisburg with the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission by the Manufacturers Light and Heat Co.

The new rate, which will become effective August 1 if approved by the PUC, will decrease monthly gas bills in this area for the company's customers using 600 to 75,000 cubic feet per month, which includes a large majority of household users. Julian Estep, local manager, said.

It will also reduce the bills for users of 375,000 cubic feet and more during any one month. Bills to customers using 400 cubic feet or less, which are few, according to Mr. Estep, and to customers using between 75,000 and 375,000 cubic feet a month will increase.

Seek Uniform Rate
The new rates affecting this area arises from the company's request for the adoption of a uniform rate over the entire territory it serves. Most of the utility customers' bills in other areas will be higher under the new rate.

The reduction in rates, if the new schedule is approved, will affect customers in Gettysburg, Littlestown, Biglerville, Bendersville, Aspers, Arden, Cashtown, Fairfield, Hampton, East Berlin, New Oxford and Abbottstown, and all other users served by the Manufacturers Light and Heat Co. in Adams and Franklin Counties, Mr. Estep said.

Citing specific examples of how the reduced rates will affect users in these areas, Mr. Estep said that

BLAZE CAUSES $3,300 DAMAGE

Fire blamed on overloaded electric wiring at midnight Thursday night caused damage estimated by the owner at $3,300 to a roadside refreshment stand on the Harrisburg Rd., three miles north of Gettysburg. It is owned by Charles Smith, Biglerville Rd.

A passerby discovered the fire and called the Gettysburg Fire Department. Both the interior of the small 10 by 12 white frame building and part of the outside was badly charred, but principal damage was done, Mr. Smith said, to an ice cream custard mixing machine, two ice cream freezer chests, a root beer barrel and other machinery and equipment.

The stand, erected about two years ago, had been closed, but Mr. Smith had worked there until just a short time before the fire was discovered, getting the place and equipment ready to open for business today, he said.

Firemen used booster lines to extinguish the fire.

Firemen Awarded $50 Parade Prize

The Gettysburg Fire Department learned late Thursday that it won a prize of $50 Wednesday evening in a firemen's parade at Union Bridge, Md.

Fire Chief Donald G. Jacobs was informed by the Union Bridge chief that judges awarded the prize to Gettysburg for the best appearing fire company, with most men in line from outside the state. Thirty-eight Gettysburg firemen went to Union Bridge.

Firemen will parade next Wednesday evening at New Windsor, Md. Chief Jacobs said that arrangements were completed Thursday to have the Blue and Gray band accompany the fire company on future parades this summer. The company will march in several such affairs.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Sons were born Thursday at the Warner Hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kane, Arden, and Mr. and Mrs. Norval Roop, Taneytown, R. 2.
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fallow, Westminster R. 7, announce the birth of a son at the hospital today.

York Springs High School Graduating Class

25 GRADUATED AT YORK SPRINGS HIGH THURSDAY

Twenty-five seniors were graduated Thursday night at the annual commencement exercises held by York Springs High School at the York Springs Community Hall.

Five seniors and three elementary grade students received awards at the services. The Danforth Foundation awards went to William McIlhenny Lott and Marie Blanche May. The Readers Digest and Chemistry awards were won by Charlene Ellen Brough. Winner of the alumni award was Carolyn Sue Snyder and of the commercial award given by the Farm Bureau, Doris Jean Hoffman.

The three prizes given by the Parent-Teachers Association to elementary students for outstanding work in the safety patrol went to Fred Flickinger, first; Harold Griffie, second, and Gary Fasick, third.

Student Speakers
Guy Morse Bingham, social and business specialist from Arlington, Va., was the principal speaker. The title of his address was "Playing The Game."

The program opened with the grand march from Wellesley's "The Pilgrims" played as the pro-pastor of the York Springs Lutheran, William McL. "Mac" Lott gave the class president's address.

Following singing of "Sing and Rejoice," by Will James, by the chorus the salutatory oration "The Challenge Facing the Graduates of 1952" was presented by Norman Dean Stary.

The valedictory oration of "The Building of Character" was given by Charlene Ellen Brough. Doris Jean Hoffman played as a piano solo, "Capricante," by Paul Wachs. Marie May and Donald Wonders presented the class history.

Following the address by Mr. (Please Turn to Page 3)

PLAN MEETING ON FIELD CROPS

A farm crops field meeting will be held Wednesday evening, June 4, at 7:30 o'clock at the farm of Mrs. Rose Murren, Hanover R. 4, near Brantstown, County Agent M. T. Hartman announced today.

A discussion and viewing of pasture, silage and hay crops will highlight the public meeting, he added. A feature of the meeting will be a demonstration plot showing the merits of common, Kenland and Pennscoot clover. The plots were seeded during the spring of 1951. Also to be shown is the use of alfalfa and smooth Bromegrass in combination as a forage crop. A general discussion will be held on grass silage and chemical weed control.

County Agent Hartman urged everyone interested in farming to attend the special meeting "because of its unusual interest and value." The meeting will be held despite weather conditions.

Littlestown Man Is Promoted At Front

Joseph C. Shanefelter, son of Samuel Shanefelter, of Littlestown, was recently promoted to corporal while serving on the Korean front with the 40th Infantry Division.

His unit, a southern California National Guard outfit, is holding a sector south of battered Kumsong. It arrived in Korea early this year after 16 months of training in the U. S. and Japan.

A member of the 223rd Infantry Regiment's Tank Company, Corporal Shanefelter entered the Army in January, 1951.

MEMORIAL DAY
The muffled drum's sad roll has beat

The soldier's last tattoo;
No more on life's parade shall meet
That brave and fallen few.

On fame's eternal camping ground
Their silent tents are spread,
And Glory guards, with solemn round
The bivouac of the dead.

Rest on, embalmed and sainted dead!
Dear as the blood ye gave;
No impious footstep here shall tread
The herbage of your grave.

Nor shall your glory be forgot
While Fame her record keeps
Or Honor points the hallowed spot
Where Valor proudly sleeps.

How a small but influential group of educators has been working to change the character of American education, to prepare future generations for a "new social order," is described in an article "Your Child Is Their Target" by Irene Corbally Kuhn in the June issue of The American Legion Magazine.

The article emphasizes that relatively few teachers are a party to this movement which is being steamrollered by a clique in the powerful National (Please Turn to Page 3)

ASKING COAL BIDS

The Adams County Commissioners Wednesday prepared an advertisement for bids on coal for the county home, with the bids to be opened August 1. The commissioners are seeking 50 tons of stove sized anthracite for the Women's Building, 50 tons of stove sized anthracite for the Men's Building and 50 tons of screened lump bituminous for the Annex Building.

ACCEPTS NEW POST

Dr. Charles C. Wolf, son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Norman Wolf and a member of the faculty of Yale Divinity School for three years, has accepted a call to the Chair of Church History of Oberlin Theological Seminary, Oberlin, Ohio. He will assume his duties with the opening of the seminary in September.

THREE INJURED IN 4 ACCIDENTS ON THURSDAY

Three persons were injured, none seriously, and damage estimated at $1,350 resulted from four automobile accidents investigated by state police of the Gettysburg substation on the eve of the Memorial Day holiday.

A truck operated by Harold Eugene Robertson, 21, Key Mar, turned over on the Littlestown-Hanover Rd., three miles west of Hanover at 12:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon when a front spring broke and the driver lost control, police said, on a grade. Damage to the truck, was estimated at $150.

Two persons were injured when an automobile operated by Frank C. Riley, 48, of Spring Grove R. 1, skidded on the same highway three miles from Littlestown at 10:10 p.m. Thursday night and hit broadside by a car driven by Jack Mum-mert, 18, of Hanover R. 1.

Skidded On Curve
Riley suffered a contusion of the head, and Mummert lacerated lips and loss of several teeth. Police said Riley's car skidded going around a curve. Damage to the Riley car was estimated at $100 and to the Mummert car at $250.

State police investigated two accidents on the Biglerville Rd. Samuel Long, 12, Gettysburg R. 3, suffered a laceration of the forehead at 5:45 p.m. when a station wagon in which the boy was riding, driven by Thomas E. Arnold, 16, also of Gettysburg R. 3, and a sedan operated by Dale D. Huff, 42, of Gettysburg R. 3, figured in an accident two and a half miles north of Gettysburg.

Police said both cars were traveling south. Huff was slowing to make a left turn, police said, and his car was struck in the rear by Arnold's automobile. The injured boy was taken to the office of Dr. Robert S. Lefever, Gettysburg, by Marvin W. Socia, 149 N. Stratton St., a passing motorist.

An automobile operated by T. Sgt. Howard P. Donaldson, 23, of Mt. Pleasant Mills, Pa., crashed into the rear of a car driven by Rodney A. Felix, 17, of Gettysburg R. 3, 2.2 miles north of Gettysburg on the Biglerville Rd. at 8:02 p.m.

Both cars were traveling north, police said. Felix was making a left turn into a driveway, and Donaldson, who was passing another car, failed to see his signal for the turn, according to the police. Damage to the Donaldson car was estimated at $300 and to the Felix car at $200.

"AG" GROUP TO MEET

A meeting of the executive committee of the Adams County Agricultural Extension Association will be held Tuesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the Adams Electric Co-operative building.

DEMOCRATS TO ELECT

The members of the Adams County Democratic Committee will meet at the court house here Monday, June 9, at 8 p.m. to elect a chairman, vice chairman, and treasurer to serve for the coming two years. Chairman Fred G. Klunk announced today.

Conduct VFW Ritual This Morning At 10

The full ritual of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, honoring the departed members of the organization and all departed members of the armed forces, was presented by the local post at 10 o'clock this morning at the National Cemetery.

The services were conducted at the grave of Meader I. Williams. Participating in presenting the ritual were Commander John Berger, Senior Vice Commander Orlyn Hixon, Junior Vice Commander Francis Wisotzky, Chaplain T. J. Collingsworth, Officer of the Day Richard Naugle, and President of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Allen Spankle.

Following the ritual by the officers the firing squad under command of Raymond Strohm fired the volleys and taps were sounded to conclude the service.

EXPECT THIRD GOOD CROP OF RASPBERRIES

The possibility of another excellent crop of raspberries in the county was reported today by Donald Horst, crop supervisor for the C. H. Musselman Co., of Biglerville.

"Quality looks fair to good at this date. The canes look good, the foliage is good and the blossom set was fairly heavy. If the crop turns out well, as it appears it will, it will be the third good year in a row, which is an unusual record," Horst said. Picking of the raspberries will begin in the latter part of June and run through the first part of July.

Horst added that the expected good crop of raspberries should provide the growers with "a good cash return" despite the fact that prices might be somewhat lower than in prior years.

Noting that the C. H. Musselman Company pays the "highest possible price," Horst said that the price will depend upon the factors tending to depress the market. Apple raspberry juice, newest product of the company, "is in a highly competitive price field," he added. In addition, he continued, "the production of canned fruits, juices and vegetables last year was the greatest in history, more than 300,000,000 cases. Supplies on hand April 1 this year were also the largest in history, 101,000,000 cases."

"As a result, the U. S. Department of Agriculture is recommending a 15 per cent decrease in processing vegetable tonnage for this year; canned fruits and vegetables are 24 points under the cost of living index and 64 points under the all-foods index."

"This is a gloomy picture," Horst said, "but we hope local growers will do better than the national average because of our natural advantages in soil and climate. We have good quality and a good crop at moderate price means more income than a light crop at a high price. In addition lower prices at the retail end will mean more customers will make an acquaintance with our product."

Soldier Dead Of All Wars Are Eulogized By Governor Fine At Memorial Exercises Here Today

"Americans, there is need for a speedy return to our responsibilities. Americans must arouse themselves from governmental sedatives, palsy-ing dependence, and illusive security."

"America today most needs an emergence from constantly recurring emergencies. Americans cannot remain myopic to their obligations. These obligations are not oplates for ill-considered sorties in ill-fated flights of citizenship. They are throbbing, pulsating, dynamic things, on which rests the fate of free men everywhere."

These challenges were issued by Governor John S. Fine in his Memorial Day address here this afternoon. It was his first official visit to Gettysburg since his election and inauguration.

Continuing his talk he said: "Call From Heroic Dead
"The call issues from the Valhalla of our heroic dead.

"The muted supplication is a plea that we unite to preserve the freedoms our forefathers gave us—freedoms for which they fought and died."

"Separated in human slavery, both the Blue and the Gray unite now in a divine eternity, and beseech the land which blends the virtues of each, to rededicate itself to the ideals of our founders."

"America must heed this call or perish as a free nation."

Catholic War Vets At Military Mass

The annual Memorial services were held this morning by the Bon-neauville post of the Catholic War Veterans with a military mass at St. Joseph's Catholic Church and services in the church cemetery.

Rev. Fr. Cyril Allwein, Waynesboro, was the speaker at the cemetery exercises held following a procession of members of the Catholic War Veterans, school children and residents of the community from the church to the cemetery.

Members of the Sons of Union Veterans from New Oxford participated with the CWV in the graveside services, providing the firing of the salute and "taps."

Rev. Fr. Leo J. Kritchken said the mass held at 8 o'clock this morning in St. Joseph's Church, LeRoy, was a Navy veteran, and Robert Storm, an army veteran, both in uniform, served the mass. Stephen Sanders, an army veteran, and Norman Smith, a Navy veteran, in uniform, carried the colors to the sanctuary. Eleven other veterans, in uniform, were in the sanctuary during the mass.

Two Injured When Freight Hits Auto

Two occupants of an automobile were injured, and treated at the Warner Hospital this morning, when their car was struck by a Western Maryland freight train at the N. Stratton St. crossing at 7:30 a.m.

George L. Hikes, 62, of York Springs R. 2, suffered a laceration of the scalp and contusions of both arms. His wife, Mrs. Zula Hikes, 57, suffered a contusion of one arm. They were treated and discharged.

HOSPITAL REPORT

Admissions: Mrs. Grace Miller, Littlestown R. 2; Mrs. Norval Roop, Taneytown R. 2; Mrs. Russell Kane, Arden; Mrs. Charles Fallow, Westminster R. 7, and Miss Nancy Rohrbach, Fairfield R. 2.

Discharges: Francis J. Ruth, Fairfield R. 1; Mrs. Harold McElroy, 531 Carlisle St.; Mrs. Clara Wertz, Littlestown R. 2; Mrs. Robert Leer and infant daughter, York Springs R. 2; Mrs. Kenneth Taylor and infant son, Biglerville R. 1.

STABBED WITH MEAT HOOK

Walter Hale, 18, of Aspers R. 2, was treated at the Warner Hospital for chest wounds, hospital authorities said, which were inflicted with a meat hook Thursday night by a boarder at the Hale home during an argument. He was later discharged.

Governor John S. Fine, of Pennsylvania, eulogized the soldier dead of all wars in a Memorial Day address this afternoon in the Gettysburg National Cemetery, dedicated by the martyred Abraham Lincoln 89 years ago.

The solemn exercises carried out for the 85th time General Order No. 11 issued by General John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic May 5, 1868, establishing May 30 as Memorial Day and ordering "strewn with flowers or otherwise decorating the graves of the comrades who died in defense of their country" and directing "such fitting services and testimonials of respect as circumstances may permit."

"Here at Gettysburg today we are privileged to be on ground forever sanctified by the gallant heroes who from their eternal repose ask us to assume our responsibilities and obligations as Americans." Governor Fine told the large crowd gathered at the cemetery this afternoon to pay tribute to the honored dead.

"Their muted supplication is a plea that we unite to preserve the freedoms our forefathers gave us—freedoms for which they fought and died," the governor declared.

Governor In Parade

The afternoon's program began at 1:55 o'clock when nearly 1,000 public and parochial school children, carrying flags and flowers, and marching behind the Gettysburg High School Band, moved from their gathering point on High St. towards Lincoln Square.

At the same moment Sgt. Joseph Temple, riding in a white State Police car, Parade Marshall LeRoy H. Winebrenner and mounted aides, John S. Rice, Julius Swope, Edward Read Jr., Richard Swope and Bernard V. Miller, began to move toward the square from Stevens St.

At the square the aides and police car headed the marching school children as they swung before cars containing Governor John S. Fine, his two sons, Jack and Donald; Major General Frank A. Weber, adjutant-general of Pennsylvania, and others in the governor's party.

At 2 o'clock the military and patriotic division of the parade began to move from Stevens St. As the last of the school children rounded the square the military units followed to form the complete parade. That section, too, passed before the governor and his group as they reviewed the proceedings from their cars parked in front of the Hotel Gettysburg.

2nd Infantry Here

Arthur Warman, Dr. Bruce N. Wolff and LeRoy Levan, mounted on horses, headed that section. Behind them was the Blue and Gray Band in their new uniforms. Then came Company M, 2nd Infantry, 5th Division, from Indianapolis Gap, commanded by Capt. Clinton Cook. The 200 men in the unit represented the men of the 2nd Infantry who fought bravely at Gettysburg in 1863 and who comprise the oldest infantry regiment now on active duty in the United States Army. The regiment won 23 battle streamers in the Civil War and was stationed in the south during the reconstruction period.

Following Company M were the 70 members of the local Howitzer Company of the Pennsylvania National Guard marching with one of their M-4 howitzer carrying tanks with them. The unit, commanded by Lt. Donald Doerscm, who served as the governor's military aide today, won honors as the best National Guard unit in the state last year.

Waynesboro VFW Post 696 Drum Corps, the local VFW color guard and firing squad and Spanish-American War Veterans in autos came next, followed by the American Legion Drum Corps of Red Lion, the local American Legion color guard and firing squad and members. The members of the Legion firing squad, Paul B. Fox, William T. Timmins Jr., Paul T. Hayne, S. Charles Smith, Kenneth Tawney, Jack Ridinger and Howard Williams, with Eugene Sikes as commander, fired the salute at the cemetery exercises.

SPECIAL FEATURE

The Gettysburg Times today devotes seven pages of its 16-page edition to an individual. Pages 5 to 11 inclusive are devoted exclusively in recognition of the 29 years of service Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson rendered to Gettysburg College as its president.

A number of friends of the local educator prepared public statements of appreciation and congratulation upon his long career in Gettysburg and these are combined with news articles relating various incidents during that long span of years. These represent the last official tribute to Dr. Hanson through these news columns before he retires on July 1. It is the first time The Gettysburg Times has presented such a feature.

PUSH PLANS FOR CREDIT BUREAU; SEEK MEMBERS

Members of the Retail Credit Bureau Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and others met Thursday night in the chamber office in the Kadel building to map plans for proceeding with the setting up of an Adams County bureau in Gettysburg.

N. A. Meligakes, president of the chamber, presided, and plans were explained by William Musser, chairman of the committee. Others attending the meeting were Herman Berg, proprietor of Gay's Jewelry, Stover Small, E. Donald Scott, Marion Stambaugh and Robert P. Snyder.

It was decided to solicit business plans to determine the number interested in a credit bureau to the extent of furnishing the funds to start it.

Seek Members

A tentative membership application form and agreement was decided upon, and the committee and those present will solicit memberships on the basis of $25 a year.

If enough memberships are obtained to justify the setting up of a bureau a meeting of those joining will be called, officers elected and the organization effected.

Mr. Meligakes said no decision had been reached on a manager for the bureau, and applications of persons will still be accepted.

Rev. Fountain Ends Four Years Here

At the regular morning worship service at St. Paul's A.M.E. Zion Church, S. Washington St., Sunday, the pastor, Rev. J. O. Fountain, will have completed four years as pastor of the local church and 21 years as pastor in the A.M.E. Zion denomination, having received his first appointment at Wesley Union A.M.E. Zion Church, Harrisburg, May, 1931, from the late Bishop J. S. Caldwell.

The subject of the pastor's message will be "The Accomplished Task," followed by the sacrament of the Holy Communion. Music will be furnished by the combined youth and senior choirs. There will be no evening service.

At the fourth quarterly conference last week the pastor was invited to return for another year. Mrs. Ida J. Robinson was elected delegate to the annual conference at Varick A.M.E. Zion Church, Philadelphia, June 4-8, inclusive.

The Rev. Mr. Fountain wishes to thank all who may have helped in any way in making this one of the most successful years in the history of the local church.

Rev. Shaum Given Piano Certificate

Rev. Fr. David W. Shaum, assistant pastor of Saint Martin's Church, Baltimore, was awarded a Certificate in Piano at the annual commencement exercises of the Peabody Institute, Baltimore, last Saturday evening.

The young priest, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Shaum, Taneytown, was the first priest to receive the diploma of the school. For the past four years, Father Shaum has served as instructor in Sacred Music at Mount Saint Mary's Seminary, and director of the Mount Saint Mary's College Glee Club.

In addition to these musical organizations he also assumed the directorship of Saint Joseph's High School Glee Club two years ago. A graduate of Mount Saint Mary's College and Seminary, Father Shaum is a member of the Associated Male Glee Clubs of America and the Music Educators National Conference.

State Police Say

If you are involved in an accident, don't be too hasty in placing all the blame on the other party. Was there something you did or left undone that was a large contributing factor? Accidents don't happen, they are caused—too often by both parties.

FLOWERS AND VEGETABLES ON MARKET TODAY

Today's Farmers' Market was largely a flower market, with a variety of blooms on sale for Memorial day remembrances in cemeteries, but there was also a good supply of fresh garden vegetables and the usual market staples.

Iris, mock orange blossoms, flowering shrub, snowballs, ferns and "Proud Henry" were offered separately or in combination bouquets, the price ranging from 25 to 50 cents, depending largely on the size of the bouquet. Iris brought 50 cents a dozen.

Apples went up in price today as the supply began to dwindle. They were 30 cents a quarter peck, 50 cents a half peck and $3 a bushel. Potatoes were non-existent on the market again. Farmers said all their supplies had been sold out during the current shortage.

Other Prices
Other prices included asparagus at 35 cents a bunch; onions, 10 cents; radishes, 10 cents; rhubarb, 15 cents; lettuce, 10 cents a box; watercress, 10 cents; parsley, five cents; mint, 10 cents a bunch and greens, 15 cents a box.

Eggs were unchanged at 50 to 55 cents a dozen for large whites and brown; 45 to 50 cents a dozen for mediums and 40 to 45 cents a dozen for pullet eggs. Dressed chickens were 60 cents a pound.

Other prices were: whipping cream, 40 cents a pint; potato salad, 25 cents a pint; cottage cheese, 20 cents a pint; bread, 25 cents a loaf; rolls, 20 cents a dozen; pies, 40 to 50 cents and cakes, $1 to $1.25.

A few farmers said they would hold a market session Saturday morning, but others said their stalls would be unoccupied.

GETS PROBATION

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Walter J. Simcox, Pitcairn factory worker, was placed on a year's probation on Tuesday after pleading guilty to involuntary manslaughter in the death of his wife last Oct. 30. A murder charge was dismissed when Judge John T. Duff ruled the state failed to prove intent to kill. Simcox admitted striking his wife.

Scouts In Procession
Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts, 4-H Club members in new green capes and white clothing and the Y-Teens in uniform preceded the Scotland School band. Following the band were the SUV Color Guard comprising Paul Snyder, Chester Shriver, Raymond Creager and David A. Tawney. Twelve mounted State Policemen preceded the governor's car. The cars of the governor and members of his party and the Memorial Day committee concluded the procession.

On the southern portion of Baltimore St., the school children stopped on the west side of the street to permit the youngsters to view the remainder of the parade as it passed them and entered the National Cemetery.

Grandsons Strew Flowers
There as Otis and Richard Walter, in Civil War uniforms, carried out the traditional SUV duty of guarding the graves, the parade drew up along the north avenue facing the National Monument which marks the site where President Abraham Lincoln stood when he dedicated the cemetery 89 years ago.

A new tradition was started this afternoon with four great-grandsons of Civil War veterans placing flowers on the grave of the unknown soldiers in the National Cemetery. Dr. C. B. Stouffer, a son of a Union veteran, who with Dr. Henry Stewart has been placing the flowers on the graves of the unknown soldiers, was in charge of the group. Doctor Stouffer and Doctor Stewart have been carrying on the tradition for a half century.

This year Doctor Stewart was unable to carry on the custom. George Black was master of ceremonies at the graves. He introduced Jesse E. Snyder and T. J. Winebrenner who presented the GAR services; Rev. Charles Held who read General Logan's Order No. 11, which established Memorial Day; John Berger who conducted the VFW services; Harold Wentz and Howard Straubach, who presented the American Legion ritual.

After the flowers had been strewn on the graves and the Legion firing squad had fired its salute Edward Hughes sounded "Taps" to conclude the ritualistic portion of the cemetery exercises.

Judge Sheely Presides
At the rostrum the Blue and Gray Band of Gettysburg played "America" to begin the service. Judge W. C. Sheely presided. The invocation was by the Rev. Dr. Harry P. Baughman, the Gettysburg Address was read by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh. Benediction was given by the Rev. J. O. Fountain. The program concluded with the "Star Spangled Banner" played by the Scotland School band.

During the rostrum exercises tribute was paid by the master of ceremonies, Judge W. C. Sheely, to James A. Hard, 110, of Rochester, N. Y.; Israel Broadwood, 106, of Samuels, Idaho; William Magee, 106, Van Nuys, Calif.; and Albert Woolson, 105, Duluth, Minn., the four surviving members of the Grand Army of the Republic. During the Civil War there were 2,989,000 men in the Union forces.

Charge County Man With Code Violation

State police of the Gettysburg substation said that R. F. Fairman, 69, of Gettysburg R. 3, was charged Thursday before Justice of the Peace William Dentler, Cashtown, with making an improper pass as the result of an accident on the Lincoln Highway near Hilltown Wednesday.

Cars driven by Fairman and Bernice C. Swope, 29, of Orrtanna R. 1, were traveling west, and state police said Fairman, in passing the Swope car, "cut back" too soon and struck the left front fender and wheel of the other automobile.

No one was injured. Damage to the Fairman car was estimated at $5 and to the Swope car at $30.

M'DERMOTT OF RED SOX JOINS ONE-HIT CLUB

By JACK HAND
AP Sports Writer

Wildman Maury McDermott, erstwhile Boston Red Sox lefty, has joined Bobby Feller, Bob Cain and Art Houtteman in the American League's one-hit club of 1952.

For years McDermott alternated between being a new Lefty Grove and a new Rex Barney. Last night he played the Grove role as he faced 27 Washington batters. For a change he walked only one.

Mel Hoderlein's single with one out in the fourth wiped out his hopes of matching Virgil Trucks' no-hitter.

Tribute Maury Tigers

A base on balls to Clyde Vollmer and Fred Hatfield's triple gave Boston its 1-0 win in the sixth inning.

While pitching dominated the night game, the batters enjoyed an afternoon field day in Detroit where Cleveland mauled the Tigers, 11-4.

The New York Yankees had to use a little "Yankee luck" to get past Philadelphia, 3-2, even with Vic Raschi, the A's jinx pitcher, on the mound. An eighth-inning error by sub first baseman Bill Hitchcock let Phil Rizzuto score from second base with the winning run off Alex Keiner.

Umps In Civies

The small Yankee Stadium crowd of 6,692 got a laugh when the umpires came out to work in civilian clothes. Their baggage had been delayed.

The New York Giants' seven-game win streak was snapped by Philadelphia, 6-5. Combined with Brooklyn's 7-3 win over Boston, the Giants' National League lead was clipped to 1½ games.

Ralph Kiner's fifth homer and Murry Dickson's pitching reversed Pittsburgh's backward motion to whip Cincinnati, 4-2. Dickson held the Reds to four hits and Kiner, walked purposely three times by Harry Perkowski, hit a two-run homer in the seventh.

St. Louis and Chicago in the National and American were not scheduled.

Interstate

By The Associated Press

After almost four weeks at the top of the Interstate Baseball League standings, the Hagerstown Braves, last year's pennant winners, found themselves in second place today.

Their position, one half game behind the Wilmington Blue Rocks, was due to a prolonged losing streak which last night reached six losses in their last seven games.

The third place York White Roses pushed across four runs in the opening inning and went on to hand the Braves their third straight defeat, 7-1, in a light rain at York.

The Blue Rocks gained the top by beating Salisbury, 8-5, with three runs in the final inning to break a 5 all tie.

At Harrisburg, The Harrisburg Senators moved up a notch into the sixth slot with a 3-1 decision over Sunbury.

In the other game of the night Lancaster's Red Roses hammered three Allentown hurlers for 18 hits and a 12-1 rout in a steady rain.

Eastern League

By The Associated Press

The pace-setting Albany Senators retained their two-game lead over the Reading Indians in the Eastern League today.

Both teams won last night. The Senators close-shaved the Binghamton Dusters, 10-9.

Reading swarmed over the Williamsport Tigers, 10-4, in a contest held to eight innings by rain. The other scheduled game, Elmira at Scranton, was rained out.

Eleven Games On Sunday Schedule

Another full round of baseball games is scheduled in three county baseball leagues for Sunday afternoon.

The South Penn. League has the following schedule: Barlow vs. Granite at McSherrystown, Bendersville at Greencourt, Hanover at Bonneauville, and Hunterstown at Brunshtown.

Games carded in the Pen-Mar 1000 include Westminster at Fairfield, Emmitsburg at Littlestown, New Oxford at Cashtown and Thurmont at Union Bridge.

The Penn-Maryland league schedule calls for Fairfield at Harney, Middleburg at Sabillasville, and Wakefield at Taneytown, Emmitsburg and New Windsor will be idle.

MANGRUM, BOLT LEAD IN WESTERN

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago and Tommy Bolt of Durham, N. C., each with a two-under-par 68, held the lead today in the 49th Western Open golf tournament. But no one is ready to pick the winner in the 72-hole, $15,000 competition.

The two old pros, and newcomer Earl Wilde of Rock Island, Ill., with a 69, were the only members of the 120-man field to win the first-round encounter with Westwood Country Club's 6,616-yard par 70 course yesterday.

Most of the entries settled for scores in the low and middle 70s. They included Sam Snead, the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., slammer who was a pre-meet favorite, Snead, with seven others, wound up with a 72, good only for an eighth place tie after 18 holes.

Bolt, this year's Los Angeles Open champ, and Mangrum, No. 4 among the money winners, finished late to post their top cards. That dumped Wilde's 36-33-69 to third after his two-under-par back nine had given him the lead most of the day.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By The Associated Press

Batting, Harry Simpson, Indians — Battered Detroit pitching for four hits, included bases-loaded home run, in 11-4 Cleveland win.

Pitching, Maury McDermott, Red Sox — Shut out Washington with one hit, a single by Mel Hoderlein in 1-0 victory.

PRESTWICK, Scotland

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio, seeking his third title, and young Harvie Ward of Tarbor, N. C., gained the semi-final round of the British Amateur Golf Championship today with one-sided victories.

Stranahan walloped Charles Carlow of Scotland, 8 and 7, while Ward prevailed over fellow countryman Jim McHale of Philadelphia, 6 and 5.

Education Association. It also stresses that not all those who openly advocate "the swing to the left" in education do so because they favor communism, socialism or welfare statism.

"Many of the professional educators involved in the agitation are actually rightists, even extreme conservatives," the argument continues.

Significant evidence of this is offered in the form of a transcript of a panel discussion presented by a group of Deweyites at Teachers College in 1933. This discussion, attended by hundreds of teachers, showed how far the clique was prepared to go in its efforts "to capture young minds in the public schools and educate them to accept a form of centralized state government."

Purchases Farm: John C. Knorr, of Bassano, Alberta, Canada, has purchased the 170-acre farm of the John C. Derr estate in Highland township. The sale was made through C. A. Helges.

The Rev. Coffelt Resigns: The Rev. Charles M. Coffelt, serving his eighth year as pastor of Zion Lutheran Church of Fairfield, presented his resignation to the church council of that congregation Sunday morning. The Rev. Mr. Coffelt gave as his reason the fact that he is moving from Fairfield to a farm in Highland township.

Prosser-Guyer: Miss Miriam R. Guyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Homer Guyer, Roaring Spring, and Carl E. Prosser, York Springs, son of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Prosser, Gardners, were united in marriage Wednesday a week at Roaring Spring. The single ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. S. P. Early.

Mr. Prosser is employed by the First National Bank of York Springs.

Will Receive Degrees: Included in the number to receive bachelor degrees at the college commencement exercises to be held on June 7 are Kathleen Black, Mary Elizabeth Katherly, Mark Eckert, Margaret Harnack, Robert Horne, Kenneth Hull, Shull Irwin, John Keith, John Larson, Robert Rau, Ruth Waltemyer, Elizabeth Weaver.

H. S. Alumni Honor Graduates of 1887: Specially honoring three members of the class of 1887, conducting their fifth class reunion, and Miss Helen Cope, former supervising principal, the Gettysburg High School Alumni Association conducted its thirty-fifth annual banquet and dance Friday evening at the Hotel Gettysburg. About 140 persons attended. President William G. Weaver, '17, served as toastmaster. Miss Margaret Myers, Miss Minnie Spangler and Mrs. Susie Warren Ketner, members of the class of 1887, the first group ever to receive diplomas from the high school, were presented with corsages by the association.

Miss Cope was a special guest at the table of the 1917 class.

Greetings from reunion classes were given by Edith Pellenbaum, 1917; Herbert Raymond, 1922; John Clapsaddle, 1927, and Weldon Plank, 1932.

Group singing was led by Miss Ellen Tipton. A roast stuffed turkey dinner was served.

President Weaver complimented J. Melchor Sheads upon his work as statistician for compiling alphabetic and class indices of the more than 2,000 graduates of the high school.

25 Fairfield Seniors Receive Diplomas: Twenty-five members of the senior class of Fairfield high school were graduated at the twenty-seventh annual commencement exercises Wednesday evening on the Fairfield Athletic Field approximately 600 persons attended.

Dr. Paul L. Cressman, of the State Department of Public Instruction, was the principal speaker.

An original pageant, "Youth's Heritage," by Miss Helen McClell, was presented. Awards were presented by Prof. E. H. Slaybaugh. Prof. Ira Y. Baker presented the diplomas to the following:

Hester Allison, Paul Bigham, Kathleen Boyd, Ruth Burkhard, Franklin Coffelt, Ethel Crouse, Frances Crouse, James Donaldson, Helen Gardman, Lela Kepner, Mae McClell, Vivian McClaughlin, Mary Musselman, Isabelle Neely, Thomas Newman, Henry Pecher, John Rebert, Elizabeth Reinhold, Edna Scott, Edward Singley, Allen Slonaker, Janet Slonaker, John Stoner, Helen Thomas and Eva Weishaar.

Mothers' Club Installs New Officers: Reports were heard, new officers installed and committees named at a meeting of the Gettysburg Mothers' club Wednesday afternoon following a luncheon at the Blue Parrot Tea Room.

Mrs. Kenderton S. Lynch read an original poem, "To Theodora Oyer—With Love," after which she presented Mrs. Ralph Z. Oyer, retiring president, with a gift from the club members.

The installation ceremony was conducted by Mrs. Oyer. The new

Today's Talk

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

IT CAN BE DONE

Just to believe you can do what you have in mind to do is half the battle to begin with. Too many of us speculate as to whether we can do the thing we attempt to do. Or we do a lot of wondering about it. Then it is that we often lose all interest—and we get nowhere!

The greatest asset we have is faith in ourself. Then it is that our faith spreads and we have faith in God, in our fellowman, and in the ultimate triumph of everything right and just. This faith is spread everywhere. You see it in great works of art, in books, in all the creations of man, and you may note its spirit concealed in Nature herself!

The late Col. W. R. Nelson, founder of the Kansas City Star, was a dear friend of mine. One evening at his home he took me to his den and showed to me a framed copy of the first issue of his newspaper that later became influential, and which did so much to build that great city of the Middle West. "Well," said Col. Nelson, "there you have it—my first issue. I started it with a paste-pot and a pair of shears!" He omitted telling me, however, that his greatest asset at that time was his faith in the enterprise. The paper was finally sold to his employees for ten million dollars!

It was faith that discovered the North Pole, that was housed in the heart of Col. Lindbergh as he successfully spanned the Atlantic from New York to Paris, and faith that has been the dominating spirit—the You Can Spirit—in every advancement on the part of man.

When Henry Ford took to Thomas Edison the idea he had for his gasoline engine and the great inventor assured Ford he had the right idea, that was all he wanted. He then went ahead and built his car. Then he kept thinking of manufacturing a car for the many. There were plenty of people who thought he was crazy—but he knew that it could be done!

There are plenty of people who are forever saying that certain things can't be done, but there are a few who go ahead and do them! They are the builders and inspirers of the race.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject, "Patience."

OUR WAY

The right to vote; the right to pray
And worship God as choose we may;
For children small the right to play.The right to read; the right to speak;
The right to work from week to week;
The right always for truth to seek.The right a plot of ground to own;
The right to reap what you have sown;
The right for right to stand alone.The right all tyrants to oppose;
The right to freedom's "yes" and "noes."
All these our way of life bestows.

Lindy's New Son Citizen of U. S. and England: Washington, May 25 (AP)—As long as he lives, the newborn son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh will be regarded as a citizen of both the United States and Great Britain, unless he definitely swears allegiance to one or the other.

This is true because of his birth to American parents on British soil.

Rockefeller Expires at 97: (By the Associated Press) Ormond Beach, Fla., May 24—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., the founder of the world's greatest "dollar dynasty," lay still in death today—just 26 months short of his cherished desire to live to be 100.

The aged capitalist died Sunday morning at 4:30 o'clock at his winter home, drifting peacefully off to his final sleep after complaining that he felt "very tired."

Governor's Address

privileged to be on ground forever sanctified by the gallant heroes who, from their eternal repose, ask us to assume our responsibilities and obligations as Americans.

"About us are the silent, hallowed graves of Americans who kept this nation intact. They made the supreme sacrifice that freedom might live. To them we are eternally indebted. They enshrined dignity of man.

Monuments To Freedom

"There are sacred spots of many climes which harbor the remains of other Americans who died to preserve this nation. From Europe to Asia, from the Atlantic to the utmost reaches of the far Pacific, in Korea and on tiny islands bathed in the sun and the rain of the tropics, these bivouacs of the American dead are a monument to a freedom we must never lose.

"As time unfolds its vastness, there doubtless will be others to join these heroic martyrs in an unflagging effort constantly to preserve freedom. The support of a unified people will lessen the death tolls.

"We in America of our own choosing are an unwelcome Nation. Everlasting peace is our aim; its achievement our goal. The path toward achievement is littered with errors of action and blunders of inaction to which all of us have contributed continued mistakes of unaltered and inattention. Yet in the past and currently we have never been able to pursue this ideal of peace without the compulsion of recourse to war. Violence has been a necessary weapon to keep the freedom we won. Violence, unfortunately, is an impelling part to any present day method we may adopt for the preservation of our freedom now so gravely challenged.

Fought For Others

"The men who lie buried here in Gettysburg and those who fought under the Stars and Stripes and have found their last resting place elsewhere were summoned to arms by the highest motives which inspire men. They gained freedom from oppression to become a fledgling among the nations of the world. As we have grown in national stature, we have sought to remain a free people and we have endeavored to secure freedom for others.

"We Americans were reared in freedom. We are unfit for despotism; and we will fight against tyrannies. Those whose memories we honor and respect today joined combat here that we might be free and that our children and our posterity might ever be free men and women. Their sacrifice must never be lost and it never will be if Americans are worthy of their trust.

"On these surrounding battlefields, where was waged the greatest and saddest fratricidal war ever known to history, this nation was welded more firmly together. It was so because men and women of the North and of the South were basically and fundamentally sound Americans. They were magnetized by the same ideals which a common ancestry weaved. They were saturated with and steeped in American traditions which many would shun and avoid today.

"The custom of paying tribute to those who, in their differences welded us into a unified nation, began in the little southern town of Columbus, Mississippi. There the flower of southern womanhood strewed floral offerings to the memory of the dead on the graves of southern and northern soldiers alike. The North immediately thrilled to this expression of tenderness. Chauncey M. Depew, illustrious statesman of that day, noted the occurrence with great felicity:

Roused National Amity

"As the news of this touching tribute flashed over the North," said Mr. Depew, "it roused as nothing else could have done national amity and love, and allayed sectional animosity and passion. Thus out of sorrows common alike to North and South came this beautiful custom."

"And thus, too, out of those common sorrows came a revitalization of true Americanism and a Union we might well emulate today.

"That is why we are privileged to be here now—not only to prayerfully memorialize our brave dead—but to renew our faith in America and what it stands for. We are here, too, that we may pay humble but feeling tribute to a brotherhood of man that not even a war could destroy, though brother fought against brother in that conflict between states.

"Christ upon the Cross forgave His betrayers and His crucifiers. The four chaplains in the last World War, who willingly sacrificed their lives that others might live, understood that meaning of brotherhood of man. Yet picture those bereaved women in their torn Southland, desolate in the loss of their dear ones, who in their deepest sorrow could still thrust aside vindictiveness and rancor to forgive, forget, and to permit America to again blossom into the greatest haven of freedom in the world. Where else in history has the real meaning of the brotherhood of man been more beautifully exemplified than by those women?

Brotherhood Means Union

"By their action they gave recognition that brotherhood means union and spells out peace.

"The nations of the world, in their tumult, could profit from the example given us by them. Instead of profiting, there is continuous bickering. The desire to subjugate free men and free women to the godlessness of Soviet Russia threatens us and the possibility of world peace.

"Where else in a frightened world could peace be better initiated through universal acceptance of our ideals than in the United States? Where else, with such glowing examples before us, could there be a better disciple of brotherhood of man than these United States? We in this country must see the need for universal recognition, acceptance and practice of brotherhood.

"National cohesion to repel those who seek our destruction is again our responsibility.

"Brotherhood does not connote an illusion; it is a tangible thing, though it has idealistic qualities. It means our ability to get along each with the other without dissension, without disunion, but with the realization of the noblest of Christianity's ideals and tenets.

Impetus In Galilee

"As far back as the Middle Ages mankind most insistently strove for brotherhood. That desire had its greatest impetus in Galilee, and we have pursued it ever since, without too much avail, but with unabated hope.

"Brotherhood in the Middle Ages was represented largely in societies for pious and benevolent purposes and, therefore, seemed somewhat limited in scope. We have learned since there can be no boundaries to its application.

"Fully applied it could avert wars or threats of wars. But we don't apply it as we did at the end of our war between the states.

"Because we don't, we are involved in a maelstrom of trouble, turmoil, and torment, into whose voracious maw the world's population may yet be plunged to the peril of the human race.

"What is there in the make-up of humanity that breeds conflict? What is there in the mass intelligence of man that refuses to react to individual conceptions of right, of amity, of a cohesive and wholehearted cooperation that, properly exercised, could cement the peoples of the world into a happy, calm and peaceful family?

"Is it greed for money? Is it avarice for power or territorial acquisition? Or is it, when all facets of this many-sided problem are analyzed, the veneered barbarism of too many people who have resolved not to do good for all mankind?

"Military might can—and most times does—breed the bully. Weakness in individual and in nation too often brings subjugation to the more powerful.

"A world domination sought today in existing international differences is too big and too impossible.

E. S. OFFICERS ARE INSTALLED

The following officers of the Gettysburg chapter, No. 392, of the Order of the Eastern Star were installed Wednesday evening at the American Legion home, Baltimore St.: Mrs. Curtis Flohr, W. Middle St., worthy matron; Dr. Frank H. Kramer, W. Broadway, worthy patron; Mrs. Elmer J. Yoder, Biglerville, associate matron; Mrs. Leroy Sheads, Fairfield, conductress; Mrs. Raymond F. Sheely, W. Lincoln Ave., associate conductress; Mrs. W. Preston Hull, Chambersburg St., secretary; Mrs. Ray J. Kitzmiller, Seminary Ave., treasurer; Mrs. Paul Myers, W. Middle St., chaplain; Mrs. Charles McQuigan, Gettysburg R. 2, marshal; Mrs. Naomi Schwartz, Littlestown R. D., organist.

Five Star Points
The five star points are: Miss Alice M. Snyder, Baltimore St., Adah; Mrs. S. Lester Scott, E. Middle St., Ruth; Mrs. Eugene Hartman, Liberty St., Esther; Mrs. Clair Shillito, Biglerville, Martha; Mrs. Emma Grove, Hanover, Electra; Mrs. Perry J. Tawney, Ridge Ave., was installed as warder; Mrs. Paul L. Spangler, Gettysburg R. 5, sentinel; Mrs. Paul W. Little, Steinwehr Ave., retiring worthy matron, was installed as trustee for three years.

Mrs. Hull and Mrs. Charles E. Kuhn, Cashtown, were the installing officers. Both are past worthy matrons of the Chapter and former district deputies. Special ceremonies were conducted for the worthy outgoing matron and the worthy incoming matron. A vocal selection ble a goal for any one nation. It is an impossibility for any group of nations. Yet there are those who foolishly seek it, ignorant that nothing tangible, or lasting, or humane is to be gained by the strong and arrogant overlordship of the weak.

"Destruction of nations, devastation of all the material things mankind has built up over the centuries, and world chaos would be the inevitable result of success of such a challenge. This prospect is mothered by godlessness spurning the rights to peoples to be happy in religious freedom, to be free of political domination, and to be a happy family under God.

Challenging Problem

"We have that challenging problem today because there exist imperfect relations among the peoples of the world. There is nothing to sorely and urgently needed as a universal recognition of a fraternal bond of kinship among peoples if we are to remedy this trying situation.

"The one secure foundation for peace and justice lies in the hearts and minds of men. The future of all mankind is being determined through day-by-day relations of man with man. The struggle is for men's minds, and the clash is bitter. Victory will lodge with those whose actions square with their preachments, with those who dynamically follow God, and with those who unflinchingly assume their responsibilities and obligations. America, the pre-eminent; America, the repository of the destiny of free man; America, the handwork of a benign Providence—why should those who enjoy the richest blessings falter or hesitate to state, shout, or affirm: 'I am an American'?"

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson Concludes Distinguished 29-Year Administration As President Of Gettysburg College

Retiring President And Mrs. Hanson In "White House" Living Room

THE longest presidential administration in the one hundred and twenty year history of Gettysburg College comes to a close one month from today . . . June 30, 1952 . . . with the retirement of Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, whose illustrious regime started July 1, 1923.

As the seventh president of Gettysburg College, formerly Pennsylvania College, Dr. Hanson served nine years longer than his nearest predecessor, the late Dr. Harvey W. McKnight, one of the three graduates of the school to serve as its president. He was graduated in 1865, occupied the executive chair from 1884 to 1904, and was his alma mater's fifth president. Two other graduates served as acting presidents.

In terminating his distinguished services Dr. Hanson leaves lasting standards, a deeper appreciation of the Christian faith, an abiding attainment for building expansion, high schoenrollment double that of 29 years ago, a larger faculty, a heart-warming relationship between the historic community of Gettysburg and the college and 29 years of unselfish devotion to the school, the church and the community.

There is no greater milestone than to be loved and admired by one's fellow man. This, Dr. Hanson has achieved in no mean proportion. His success as an administrator is well known throughout the collegiate field. As a speaker (he has always been in heavy demand throughout eastern America) he has no peer, and the eloquence of his philosophy has inspired thousands upon thousands of listeners in all walks of life.

His firm handshake, the warmth of his friendship and his sincere fellowship plus the pleasant memories of his long service in Gettysburg will be long remembered and cherished.

Administration Of Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson Is Famous For Its Extensive Building Program

The history of Gettysburg College will record the last 29 years as the administration of Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, "the builder." More buildings were erected and more improvements made than in the preceding century and the total cost has been more than a million and a quarter dollars.

It is a far cry from the humble beginning of Pennsylvania College, the predecessor of Gettysburg College, at W. High and S. Washington Sts. to the well-equipped college of today; from the acre or more of ground with one four-room building to the present campus of 100 acres and its large number of modern or reconditioned buildings, and a great proportion of the credit for this expansion must go to Dr. Hanson.

Inaugurated in 1923
President Hanson was inaugurated on October 19, 1923. World War I had held up the building program and at one time there was a grave question whether the college could remain open. Immediately after the war, however, attendance doubled, and when Dr. Hanson assumed the presidency, the college buildings and equipment were less adequate than ever.

The net proceeds of the million dollar endowment and expansion fund were largely absorbed in meeting the conditions of the pledge of the General Education Board. They promised to give the college $150,000 for endowment, provided it raised from other sources $300,000 for the same purpose, or $450,000 in all, also for increasing salaries. They also required the college to pay its debt of $40,000.

The congestion in the scientific laboratories, especially in the department of chemistry, had increased with the increased attendance and classrooms were inadequate. Library facilities were antiquated.

Outlines Building Program
As soon as collections on the million dollar drive had met the conditions of the Rockefeller Board, President Hanson submitted to the board a building program involving the reconditioning of Brua Chapel, "Old Dorm," and Glatfelter Hall, and the erection of a science building, gymnasium, library and provision for an athletic field.

During the summer of 1925, new floors, stairways, doors and frames were put in "Old Dorm" and the building generally renovated at a cost of $13,294.19, and Brua Chapel was reconditioned.

In 1925 new pledges for a building program were solicited and the building committee was authorized to plan for the erection of a science hall and a gymnasium at a cost of approximately $200,000. The lowest bid submitted was $210,000. The bid was accepted and the new science building was occupied in the fall of 1927. The gymnasium was opened in the fall of the same year.

Gym. Science Hall

The cost of construction of the science hall was $138,101.07 and cost of equipment was $21,068.74. The gymnasium cost $144,315.48 and equipment $10,333.99.

The science hall was named "Breidenbaugh Hall" in honor of Dr. E. S. Breidenbaugh, of the class of 1868, who had taught science at the college from 1874 until he became professor emeritus in 1924.

While the new gymnasium was in process of construction, Edward S. (Eddie) Plank, a member of the Philadelphia Athletics team in the American (baseball) League, died. He had been associated with the institution as a student in the preparatory department and the new gym was named in his honor, the "Eddie Plank Memorial Gymnasium."

The football field was built during the summer of 1925 at a cost of $18,307.69. It was named "Memorial Field" in honor of the soldiers from college who lost their lives in World War I. Nixon Field is now used for baseball.

Build New Library

During the summer of 1928 conditions seemed to justify the immediate construction of a new library building. Work was begun in the fall of that year. It was completed in the fall of 1929 at a cost of $109,254.16 and equipped at a cost of $15,577.15.

Glatfelter Hall was opened in the fall of 1889. In 1929 it had been in continuous use for 40 years. William L. Glatfelter and his sisters rebuilt the entire interior of the structure during the summer and fall of 1929 at a cost of $114,434.25. It was equipped at a cost of $11,144.61.

During the program of rapid expansion several old buildings on the campus which had outlived their original purposes were removed. The janitor's house was torn down in 1928 and a new home built at a cost of $4,950.96. The McCreary gymnasium, built in 1875 and converted into a chemical laboratory in 1889-1890, was demolished in 1928, and Cottage Hall, built as a double residence for professors and converted into a students' dormitory in 1913, was removed in 1928 to make way for the new library.

Enlarge Weidensall Hall

During World War II the college infirmary was enlarged. Weidensall Hall, the Student Christian Association building, badly damaged by fire on November 23, 1946, was rebuilt in 1948 at a cost of $220,000.

One-story frame construction buildings formerly used as army barracks were moved here several years ago and remodeled for use as dormitories and as living quarters for married students. A recreation building was set up, also of frame construction, after the SCA fire.

In 1950 Hanson Hall was completed as a new dormitory for women, at a cost of $372,000, and Christ Chapel is presently under construction. It will cost approximately $535,000. Brua Chapel was enlarged for the fine arts building at a cost of $90,000.

Successive purchases of land in recent years have enlarged the campus until it now includes 100 acres. Tennis courts, touch football, softball and soccer fields have been developed on new sections of the college property.

During Dr. Hanson's 29 years as college president, he either built or rebuilt every building on the college campus.

Buys Washer For Uncle Sam

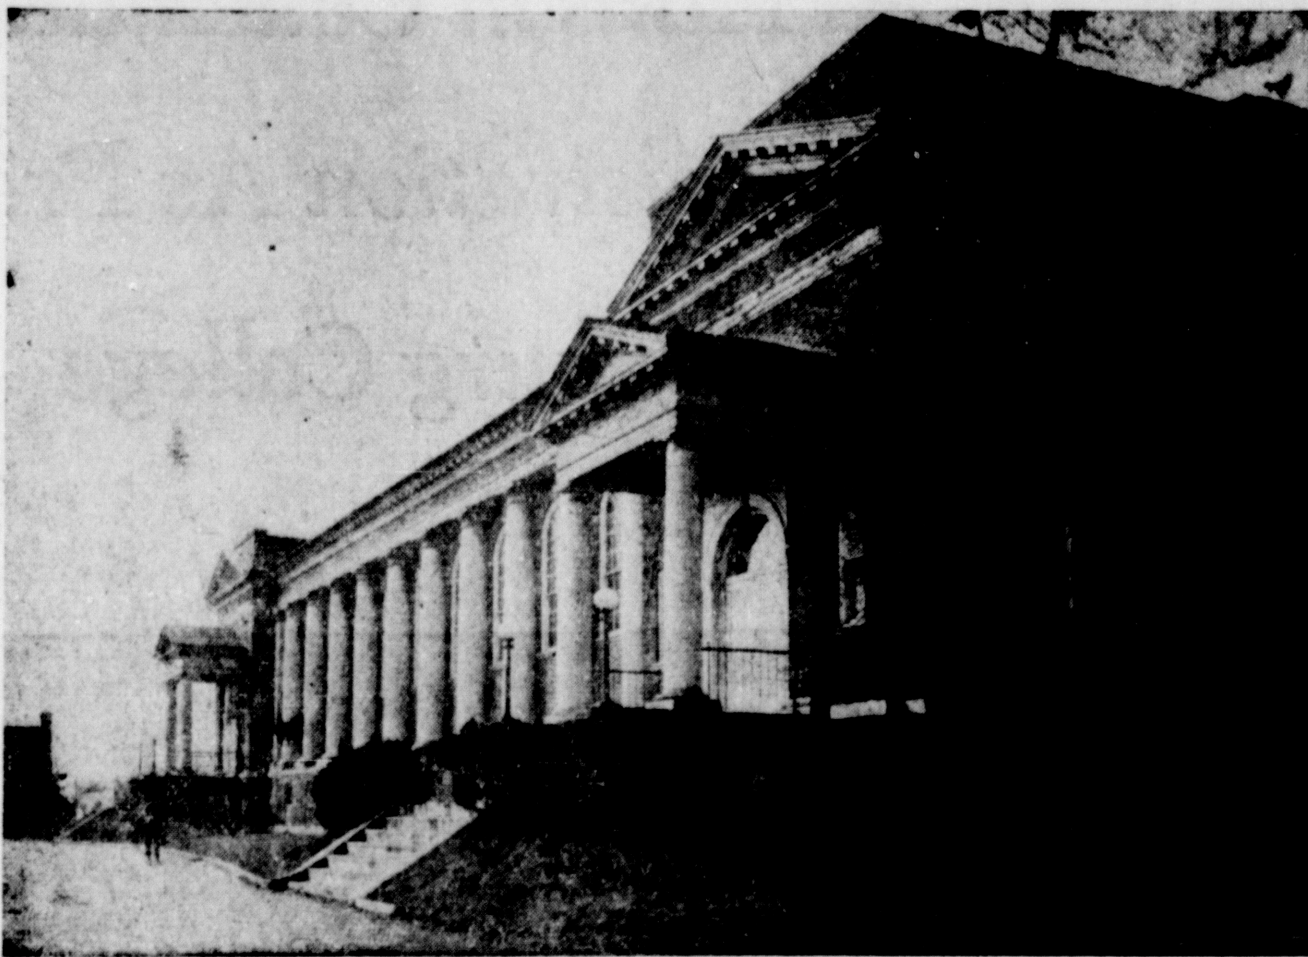

Down through the years, history has recorded the deeds of men who moved mountains, but not one word has been written of Dr. Hanson's feat of obtaining a dish washing machine.

It was necessary for the college to have a dish-washing machine preparatory to the Army cadets coming here in 1943. All inquiries as to where one could be purchased were met with negative answers.

Dr. Hanson "went to the top" and worked through Washington but was unable to find out where they were available. A friend in Reading referred him to a man in Philadelphia. In the Quaker City, Dr. Hanson was told he could buy one of two machines available.

On his call back to Washington to get priority to purchase the machine, Dr. Hanson was told that the only way he could receive permission to make the purchase, was to find one for the government. Another telephone call to Philadelphia brought results. He purchased the second one.

The termination of his unparalleled administration is a source of deep regret throughout the Community. His warm association has endeared him to all of us and while his retirement is recognized as justly earned and deserved, his absence from the community will be deeply regretted.

Through these columns we extend to Dr. and Mrs. Hanson our most sincere congratulations upon all their accomplishments and wish for them, restfulness and happiness they have so deservedly earned.

Proudly we recognize and pay tribute, in this humble way, to the 29-year milestone at Gettysburg College and the Community of Gettysburg . . . the successful administration of Dr. Hanson.

CONGRATULATIONS ON A LIFE-TIME OF ACHIEVEMENTS

Dr. Hanson's record of accomplishments during his 29 years as president of Gettysburg College will be a permanent testimony to his business and educational ability.

May your future years in Harrisburg, Dr. Hanson, be full of rich blessings as your just reward for your tremendous achievements. We consider it a privilege to have had business relations with Gettysburg College when you were at the helm.

Well-rounded Personality Of College President Reflected In Achievements In Fields Of Church, Education And Public Service Of Various Types

"The world stands before the door of the American College asking not what are you teaching, what social advantages are you offering your students; not what special courses are you advertising in your catalogue, but—what are you doing in the building of a virile, rugged, red-blooded manhood, which is passionately loyal to worth-while ideals?"

Those words, spoken 29 years ago by a young man of 41 upon the occasion of his inauguration as president of Gettysburg College, proved to be the keystone of the philosophy behind both Dr. Henry William Andrew Hanson as a man and as president of the college. It is an ideal that he has kept and developed during the 29 years he served as president of the local institution. He will retire as college president June 30.

Studied In Europe
Born in Wilmington, N. C., March 12, 1882, a son of Louis and Augusta Glameyer Hanson, the future college president received his bachelor of arts degree from Roanoke College in 1901 and then came to the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary to receive his training as a minister. He graduated from the seminary in 1904. He was licensed by the West Pennsylvania Synod in 1903 and ordained as a minister by the Pittsburgh Synod in 1904. He then spent three semesters doing post graduate work in European universities.

From 1906 to 1912 he was pastor of St. Luke's Lutheran Church in Pittsburgh and from 1913 until his election as president of the local college in 1923 he was pastor of Messiah Lutheran Church in Harrisburg. As a matter of fact he served for a short time as pastor of Messiah Church and president of the college. When he resigned as pastor he promised to continue until a new minister could be named, and his duties as college president and minister overlapped for several months. June 1, 1904, after his graduation from the seminary, he and the charming Elizabeth Trimble Painter were married. The couple have three children, Henry W. A. Hanson, an attorney in Harrisburg; Rev. T. Painter Hanson, pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church, Belleville, N. J., and Robert D. Hanson, who, after serving as an officer in World War II, graduated at law and, with his brother, formed the law partnership of Hanson and Hanson, Harrisburg.

During the years many honors have been conferred on Doctor Hanson. In 1918 Gettysburg College gave him the doctor of divinity degree, little realizing that in a few years it would call the noted pastor of Messiah Church to be its president. In 1925 Bucknell College and Lafayette College conferred LL.D. degrees on the president of Gettysburg College.

Active In Red Cross
The pastor of St. Luke's and Messiah had set an enviable record for public service during those pastorates. He had been active in Red Cross work; during the war—World War I—he had gone to embarkation points to speak to the men and inspire them to higher devotion to their country and the need for sacrifice. Nearly every worthy community project had sought and received his aid. In his duties as a minister and in his activities for the betterment of his community he had proven himself as a preacher, a pastor and an administrator.

When Dr. W. A. Granville announced his resignation as president of Gettysburg College in December 1922, to take effect March 1, 1923, the committee appointed to nominate his successor did not have far to look.

Inaugurated In 1923
Inauguration of the new president on October 19, 1923, took place on the Gettysburg College campus in a large tent erected for the purpose when it was found that there was no auditorium in the borough large enough to handle the expected crowd.

Rain started before and continued throughout the services. Dr. J. A. Pennington, provost of the University of Pennsylvania, brought laughter by starting his remarks: "This is the wettest inauguration I have ever attended." But an estimated 1600 turned out to greet the distinguished minister on the occasion of his inauguration as president of the college.

Plaster Falls
"A bad beginning means a good ending" is an old saying that proved true in connection with the Hanson regime. Not only did the rains descend on the inauguration, but the plaster fell during the reception.

Following the services on October 19, 1923, in the tent along the banks of the Tiber, Dr. and Mrs. Hanson entertained their friends and well-wishers at a reception held that evening in Weidensall Hall. About 9 o'clock that night as the Harrisburg Symphony orchestra was playing in one of the rooms a large part of the plaster fell from the ceiling. One of the musicians was cut on the head, but no one was seriously injured. The tremendous crush of those attending the reception in a room above where the orchestra was playing was blamed for loosening the plaster.

On June 2, 1923, when the trustees elected Doctor Hanson as president of the college Dr. John F. Dapp, president of the board, had announced that Doctor Hanson was the only man who had been considered and that he was the unanimous choice of the board.

Large Congregation
While pastor of Messiah Lutheran, Doctor Hanson had made it the largest congregation in the Eastern Pennsylvania Synod, increasing the membership from 875 to 1550. Not only that, but he had constructed a new church which was declared to be the most beautiful in the entire area. At St. Luke's in Pittsburgh he had tripled the congregation during his few years as pastor.

He was president of the Eastern Pennsylvania Synod at the time he became president of the college. He had been a member of the West India Mission Board, chairman of the Church Federation of Harrisburg, member of the Harrisburg Rotary club, member of the board of directors of the ended and the attendance almost doubled.

Starts Building Program
A Million Dollar Endowment Fund had been raised, but those funds had gone largely for such things as raising salaries of the faculty, as required to retain men of higher academic classification who were needed to secure for the college the approval of the highest accrediting agencies.

With facilities, including scientific laboratories, library, and classrooms, inadequate, Doctor Hanson's first steps were to begin the career of construction of new structures that has earned him the name of "the Building President." Details of the tremendous increase in classroom, laboratory and other facilities brought about during his regime are contained in another (Please Turn to Page 8)

Dr. Hanson's Presidency

article appearing elsewhere in this edition.

But the problems of building were but one of the many pressing details that occupied the attention of the new president. Immediately after the close of World War I, the college enrollment doubled and Doctor Hanson began immediately a program of increasing the standards of scholarship of the school. Rigid academic requirements were established beginning in 1924 and in two years, 1924 and 1925, more than 100 students were dropped because of unsatisfactory work. The standards rose to the highest in more than 70 years. It was part of the program of modernization of the school and a general elevation of standards throughout to meet the needs of a newer day.

Sought To Help Students

But the purpose of making academic standards higher was not to rid the college of students. Believing that the higher standards were for the benefit of the students themselves, and believing that there must be a reason for scholastic failures, Doctor Hanson began also during his first year at the college a study of why students fail courses.

His studies of the cause of failures led Doctor Hanson to establish a committee on academic standing in 1924. The students who failed need not have failed, and would not if they had had encouragement soon enough, the college president declared.

Many a student, he had discovered, failed because the student failed to realize the inescapable penalty of getting behind in his work. To solve that problem all instructors were required to report all low grades and failures to the committee on academic standing. Then that committee would know when a student was falling short in time to help him. The faculty was encouraged to foster personal contacts with the students, particularly those whose work was proving unsatisfactory, that they might help them to overcome the shortcomings. Two years later, in June of 1926 the office of dean of men was established with the direct responsibility of conferring with students as soon as they appear to be in difficulties.

Failures Decrease

The results of this effort were most encouraging. The number of failures was reduced by one-half during the first year the college had a dean.

Doctor Hanson's study had also revealed that most of the failures in college occurred during the first year. In 1924 he asked the faculty to consider the possibility of establishing orientation courses to help the freshmen find themselves in this new world of collegiate education.

The idea was new, and involved pioneer work, but the college faculty agreed and Dr. Charles Sanders was put in charge of working out an orientation program to assist newcomers to the school.

In 1925 the first "Freshman Week" was held and it proved so great a success in helping to orient the incoming freshmen that the program has been continued since and has been adopted by most other colleges.

With new buildings and increased scholastic standing Doctor Hanson also took time to consider the faculty. Under his regime it began an expansion that has continued year by year. The new president also knew that professors are in danger of "getting into a rut." For many there can be little variation in what they teach and how they teach it year after year. The new president knew the need for new ideas, the need to "rub shoulders" with other educators to keep alive one's ideas on education.

Broaden Faculty Scope

In 1924 he recommended to the board that professors be requested to visit other institutions of high standing to observe the work in the various departments and that they be requested to attend district and general conferences of educators in their field every year. To help foster the idea, he recommended that the college pay a sum toward defraying the expenses of such visits. The plan resulted in better teachers and better teaching.

Along the same line Doctor Hanson suggested, and the idea was approved in 1927 by the trustees, a program of sabbatical leaves permitting professors to spend a semester on full salary every few years on advanced study or foreign travel.

The visits to other institutions, the attendance at conventions and the sabbatical leaves all helped prevent isolation from current thought and comment, but to make sure that new ideas continued to flow steadily through the institution, Doctor Hanson also established a program of a series of lectures yearly. Under that program the students and faculty of the college have the opportunity each year to hear experts on problems of the day, reports on world conditions and descriptions of the latest in science.

Adopt Pension Plan

The successful minister who became a successful college president had argued that the colleges must produce well-rounded men, rather than narrow specialists. And his early years at the local institution were spent in getting a well-rounded program covering the administration of the college. With more students, improved education methods, more building and a larger faculty, he next turned his attention to the question of the men who had devoted their lives to the education of the young. In January 1927, he presented to the board for adoption a program of pensions for superannuated teachers, with the amount of pension based on length of service.

He also took care to strengthen the bonds with the alumni, those who had graduated from the school and who loved the institution. In 1929 he recommended, and the board approved, the establishment of the office of Alumni Secretary to keep in touch with those who had passed beyond the portals of the institution.

To the well adjusted, well-rounded man all things are part of the whole entity of living. And Doctor Hanson took another step to help students realize that fact. Home and college seemed far apart. To remedy that he established a week end in autumn as "Father's Day" and a week end in spring as "Mother's Day." During those periods the parents were guests of the college. They came to see how their sons and daughters were being taught, and the ties between home and college were strengthened. That the ideas filled a long-needed want is proved by the fact that both Father's Day and Mother's day, which were originated as college activities by Doctor Hanson, have been adopted by nearly every other college institution since that time. It would seem that the study and thought that went into Doctor Hanson's program of expansion and development of the college would be sufficient for one career.

But the college was one thing and there was time for service in many other lines, and service was Doctor Hanson's strong point. He took time to deliver, over the years, some of the outstanding sermons given in great churches throughout the nation. As a result of one Washington sermon he was lauded by the secretary of the Scottish YMCA, who declared him to be "the greatest speaker produced in America."

In 1927 he found time to take his own medicine. He had recommended trips abroad for the faculty, and so he took one himself, to return refreshed and full of new ideas for the betterment of the college.

He took time out to address innumerable community meetings, from one in Hagerstown in 1929 to one at Greencastle a few weeks ago. The talks, which number into the hundreds, were on many subjects, but basically were on the need for better education and a broader, deeper, more Christian life. He was welcomed everywhere and seldom was he asked that he had to refuse.

In 1929 he helped study the distribution of state subsidies. In 1930 he was president of the Association of College Presidents in Pennsylvania. In 1931 he was president of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce. In 1933 he was president of the Board of American Missions, and in 1934 he was re-elected to that post.

Served Draft Board

The duties and honors listed are but a small fraction of the many that have devolved upon the president of the college throughout the years. He was frequently called into consultation on matters of education in the state and nation. In World War II he served on the state draft board, the body which set policy for the entire state.

He established the Air ROTC at the local college, one of the top ranking such establishments in America.

This past year, always the pioneer, the college president helped establish a program for training women in Air ROTC work in a pilot program which will probably be, judging by its success here adopted by the Air Force for colleges throughout the U. S. The course will lead to commission in the Women's Air Force units. Under Doctor Hanson's leadership the college has become a vital part of the community. Faculty and students have taken part in community affairs and the community has become a part of college activities.

Schoolmen's Association, an organization of teachers and educators in the elementary and secondary schools of the county plus members of the faculty of the college. The group meets at the college. Each summer the Adams group joins with the York and Franklin schoolmen's units to conduct a program at which educators, industrialists, businessmen and professional men join in round table discussions and a series of lectures on problems of education and how education can become more adapted to the community.

At the monthly meeting of the Adams group college professors and high school teachers sit down side by side to discuss how to better the entire educational program and the college man learns the problems and needs of the high school teacher and the high school teacher learns the problems of the college.

Career Conference

The program set up by Doctor Hanson that a college should serve its community is pointed up even better by the annual Career Conference held by the schools and college at which high school juniors and seniors from throughout the county come to the college each spring for a program at which 30 or 40 outstanding men and women in the various professions and businesses outline to the high school students the requirements and ideals and future of these professions.

The ideal of service to the community is also carried out through the yearly American Legion Essay contest. The essays written by the high school seniors are judged by the faculty of the English Department of the school and the department of testing gives a college entrance examination, on which the scholarship given by the Legion is awarded, to the students entered in the essay contest.

Doctor Hanson himself has served as "official greeter" for the community for many years, and has been willing to lend his services wherever needed. That encouragement has led the members of the faculty to become part of community affairs and has even encouraged students to enter into thorough activities. Frequently sororities or fraternities have helped in such activities as the recent painting of the AME Zion parsonage; in helping harvest the crops at the county home; in helping to entertain the residents of the county home by reading to the aged guests there. One fraternity devotes its time to assisting in Boy Scout activities in the community.

On Reunion Commission

Perhaps one of the major non-college events during Doctor Hanson's administration was the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg in 1938. He was a member of the Pennsylvania Commission for the observance. As president of the college as well as a member of the commission he had to practically convert the college into a summer camp for the anniversary celebration.

For the observance, tents were erected on college property to house hundreds of veterans from both the Confederate and Union armies; in addition the tented city was swollen by the need for quarters for attendants of the old soldiers, for the Army troops, Boy Scouts and others who assisted in the program, for doctors and nurses and hospital room. Buildings on the campus were used to house reporters and radio commentators and other connected with the anniversary. Memorial field, and other portions of the college campus, blossomed with tents.

The story is not complete to list the thousands of activities of the president of the college, both within the field of education and within the field of the ministry and public service, would require an enumeration far too extensive for a brief article such as this. Suffice to say that Doctor Hanson, through 29 years, has served his college, his country, his church, his state and his community well. He has held fast to the ideal he expressed in his inaugural address in 1923:—"Religion is the root, ideals are blossoms, service is the fruit. To seek the fruit without cultivating the root is a hopeless quest." From the fruit of service in his life as a college president and minister, there is evidence sufficient that the roots were well cultivated.

A Bit Of History About Your Own Adams County

This is the third in a series of historical talks given over Radio station WGEE by Dr. Robert Fortenbaugh, Adeline Sager professor of history at Gettysburg College, on some of the outstanding events and interesting episodes in the development of Adams County.

Among the agencies existing for the general benefit of Adams County there is one which has had an unbroken line of life and service for 120 years—the college in Gettysburg. Chartered by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania on April 7, 1832, as The Pennsylvania College of Gettysburg, it has for many years unofficially, and since 1921 officially, been known as Gettysburg College. Since the college opened classes, it has never failed to open its doors at the appointed time in the autumn of each succeeding year.

In 1862 the Theological Seminary of the General Synod of the Lutheran Church was established in Gettysburg, under the leadership of the Rev. Dr. Samuel Simon Schmucker. Immediately the need for a school of a classical nature to prepare young men for the ministry was felt, and in 1827 such a school was begun, and named the Gettysburg Classical School.

In 1829 a scientific department was added and the name of the school was changed to the Gettysburg Gymnasium. The name "gymnasium" was that given to European institutions, particularly in Germany, which prepared students for entrance to the universities. It roughly corresponded in the content of the work in the first three years of an American college.

Need 4-Year School
However, this was not in harmony with common American practice, and so it soon became clear that for preparation for the ministry a standard four-year American-type college was needed. This would also fill a felt need for an institution of higher learning for the benefit of young men of the community and of the Lutheran Church in this general area who were not intending to take up theological studies in the seminary.

Accordingly in the fall of 1831 Dr. Schmucker called together a number of leading citizens of Gettysburg to consider the desirability and the feasibility of "erecting Gettysburg Gymnasium into a college." Dr. Schmucker invited those present at the meeting in the Gettysburg bank to cooperate with him in an effort to obtain a charter for a college from the legislature of Pennsylvania. He informed them that the college he aimed at was to be unsectarian in its instructions but at the same time to be prevailing under Lutheran influence and control.

Governor Signs Charter
The proposition was cordially received, and General T. C. Miller was appointed to accompany Dr. Schmucker to Harrisburg to begin proceedings. They met with opposition which was finally overcome when the act granting the charter, which Dr. Schmucker drafted, was passed by the House of Representatives on February 27, and by the Senate on April 5. Governor Wolf signed it on April 7, which day is considered the birthday of Gettysburg College.

We are not concerned with the details of the acceptance of the charter, the organization of the corporation, and other preliminary matters. We take brief note of the formal organization of the college on July 4, 1832, which was in part a public meeting held in the Presbyterian Church, which then stood on the west side of Washington St. just south of the present Philadelphia and Reading station.

In part the formal organization was also marked by the first meeting of the Board of Trustees in the evening. The Hon. Calvin Blythe of Harrisburg, judge of the 12th Judicial District, and the orator at the public meeting in the morning, was elected president; the Rev. John G. Morris, of Baltimore, secretary and John B. McPherson, of Gettysburg, treasurer.

Elect 6 To Faculty
The board then proceeded to the election of a faculty for the institution now organized. The following were elected, all accepting: S. S. Schmucker, D.D., professor of intellectual philosophy and moral science; E. L. Hazellus, D.D., professor of Latin and German literature; the Rev. H. L. Baugher, professor of Greek and Belles Lettres; the Rev. Michael Jacobs, professor of mathematics, chemistry and natural philosophy; the Rev. J. H. Marsden, professor of mineralogy and botany.

Later Mr. E. T. H. Friederici was elected as teacher of the preparatory department which was to be a regular department of the college for many years. Private arrangements were offered for anyone to study French under his instruction.

Drs. Schmucker and Hazellus, professors at the seminary, offered to teach part time without compensation, pending other permanent arrangements. The Revs. Baugher and Jacobs had been full time teachers in the gymnasium, and the Rev. Marsden, an Episcopal clergyman, gave part time service, in addition to his work as head of the Gettysburg Female Academy.

Thus, only Profs. Baugher and Jacobs were full time teachers in the college. The Rev. Dr. Schmucker acted as the executive head of the institution until the Rev. C. P. Krauth, who had become professor in September, 1833, was appointed the first president of the college on April 15, 1834.

Start Classes Nov 7, 1832
With the faculty so constituted Pennsylvania College according to the decision of the Board of Trustees at its July 4th meeting, went into operation by beginning classes on November 7, 1832, in the building which still stands at the southeast corner of High and Washington Sts. The real work of education had begun.

The building in which the college began classes had been serving for some years as the center of educational activities in Gettysburg. It was built very probably in 1813-14 to provide for the Gettysburg Academy which had received a grant from the Commonwealth of $2,000 for the purpose of beginning the institution. It operated until about 1826 when financial difficulties caused it to close, and the building was taken over for the use of the theological seminary, which began its work that year.

In 1829 Dr. Schmucker purchased the building in behalf of an association of Lutheran clergymen who were interested in promoting higher education under Lutheran auspices. Already a classical school, later the gymnasium, was organized and this also used the building. In 1832 the seminary moved to its new location on the ridge west of town to which it gave the name, and space was then available for accommodating the college then organized, which occupied the old building together with the gymnasium.

Now Private Residence.
This arrangement continued until the new college building was opened in October of 1837, when the old building was sold. It stands today, remodeled to accommodate the families of Carl and Harold Reuning.

From very limited data, some of which is not now available, we estimate that 63 students constituted the original student body. These were divided as follows: three juniors, eight sophomores, 12 freshmen and 40 preparatorians. They were all formally matriculated on December 15, 1832.

It seems that friends of the college were satisfied with this enrollment and were very hopeful of the future. The second year began with 80 students, and the attendance continued to increase every year for some time. As there were no seniors enrolled in the first student body, there was no commencement in 1833. The first graduating exercises took place in September, 1834, with three men receiving the degree of bachelor of arts. These were the same three who had entered as juniors in November, 1832, and were Jacob Barnitz, Bacon, who

U. S. SENATOR LAUDS HANSON

A splendid compliment was paid Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg College, by United States Senator J. W. Fulbright, Arkansas, who was unable to attend a banquet tendered the local college president in Washington recently.

Because of a previous engagement Senator Fulbright wrote the following letter to Professor Lawrence D. Fokemer, Department of Religion, George Washington University, Washington, D. C.:

"I appreciate so much the invitation to the banquet for Doctor Hanson on May 12. I am very sorry, indeed, that I have an engagement to attend a meeting of the Institute of International Education in New York on that afternoon, so I will not be present in Washington."

"Doctor Hanson is one of the great educators of our country and I would like so much to participate in this token of admiration and esteem tendered him by the Washington Alumni Association of Gettysburg College."

"Gettysburg College is one of the outstanding liberal arts institutions of the nation and owes much of its success to the able and wise leadership of President Hanson during the past twenty-nine years."

"Please extend my sincere congratulations to Doctor Hanson."

was the first matriculate of the college; David Grier Barnitz, who was the first valedictorian, and William H. Smith, who was the first salutatorian.

Preparatory Course
When the college opened, the course in the preparatory department extended over three years. At the end of the first year the Board of Trustees reduced the preparatory course to two years.

All colleges commonly had preparatory departments in those days, and for many years thereafter, as there were few public high schools and preparation for college was necessarily done in some private institution.

The course of study as originally planned and actually introduced, was ambitious for an infant institution. It shows the creditable standard intended to be begun and maintained. The general course of study or the curriculum in all colleges of that day was fixed and required of all students.

The "Course of Instruction," as it was called, was adopted by the Board of Trustees during the summer, and on August 29th a circular was issued which contained the full "Course of Instruction" and made the first formal announcement of the opening of the college.

It also contained this communication: "Dear Sir, as Pennsylvania College will go into operation on the 7th of November next, it is thought desirable that a specific view of the course of study should be exhibited to a number of gentlemen competent to judge of its merits. We have therefore taken the liberty to transmit to you this circular, and respectfully solicit your influence in recommending students to our institution. Signed, on behalf of the faculty."

The "Course of Instruction" provided for the tradition classical education, but did offer some courses in science, and even allowed for the choice between subjects in the junior and senior years. This was the most modern and novel touch in the curriculum.

This began Gettysburg College which, in the 120 years since that beginning date, has grown and prospered, and has become a valuable asset to the county in whose foundation the county participated, and for which it has been repaid many fold.

Kruger National Park in South Africa, sometimes called the largest zoo in the world, is bigger than Massachusetts.

Prexy Assumed His College Post In 1923

Twenty-nine years ago (1923) Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson came to Gettysburg college from a 10-year pastorate at Messiah Lutheran church in Harrisburg where he was hailed as a preacher, pastor and administrator.

He was well schooled for a difficult assignment.

A native of Wilmington, N. C., he was graduated from Roanoke college in 1901 and from Gettysburg Lutheran Theological seminary in 1904. After three semesters in German universities, he became pastor of St. Luke's church, Pittsburgh, in 1906 and served there seven years before going to Harrisburg. During World War I he was a member of the staff of preachers and lecturers of the War Work commission of the YMCA.

Bucknell university and Lafayette college have conferred honorary LL.D. degrees. The United Lutheran Church in America and educators organizations have heaped honors upon him, not the least of which has been the presidency since 1933 of the American Missions Board of the ULCA.

In 1951, the average yield per acre for cotton in Arizona was 740 pounds, the highest of any state in the nation, says the National Geographic Society.

Dear Boss:

Will you ever forget the mad scramble for a dish-washing machine? Will you ever forget the day the College Training Detachment arrived on the campus and we weren't ready for them? Will you ever forget the evening in Martinsburg, West Virginia, when you had left the outline of your Address in another suit? Will you ever forget the flat tire on the way home from the Governor's Reception? Will you ever forget the lost cornerstone?

In each and every predicament that we have been through together, I have learned much from your calmness in the face of mishap.

But, Sir, most of all, I have joyfully watched you move forward to your final goal: The erection of Christ Chapel in the heart of the campus!

For the Call you extended to me twelve years ago, for the opportunity to walk with the students on the campus, and for the privilege of knowing you and Mrs. Hanson, I shall be eternally grateful.

Sincerely yours,

"A STATUE lies hid in a block of marble, and the art of the statuary only clears away the superfluous matter and removes the rubbish. The figure is in the stone; the sculptor only finds it. What sculpture is to a block of marble, education is to a human soul. The philosopher, the saint or the hero . . . the wise, the good, or the great man . . . very often lies hid in a plebeian, which a proper education might have disinterred, and have brought to light."

STUDENT BODY PRAISES PREXY IN OPEN LETTER

The following open letter to Dr. H. W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg College, appeared in the editorial columns of the May 15 edition of "The Gettysburgian," college student newspaper:

"Dear Mr. President, "In June you will be leaving us, sir, never to return in the capacity of President of the College. We are going to miss you, for through your guiding hand and common sense Gettysburg College and the people connected with it through the years have benefited greatly in numerous ways. Your spiritual strength has built and aided our school in maintaining the reputation of being a good Christian College. Your administrative ability through the years has been responsible for an educational policy of the highest order at a low student cost. Finally, your character has been responsible for directing and turning out model Christian citizens that have helped make America the great nation that she is today.

"A Full Happy Life"

"Your life has been a full and happy one, because at an early age you discovered that the greatest joy was attained through giving rather than receiving. You have done so many things of great worth in the past that if you were given a dollar for every life that you have helped you could probably reduce the national debt immeasurably.

"We know that your retirement here will not mean the end of your guidance and usefulness to mankind. Rather do we believe that wherever you go individuals and groups will constantly be the recipients of all you are capable of giving through the love and understanding of the One Who has so inspired you.

"Campus Mother" "You have gained and will gain much more because you have invested your life in the only One Who could really pay off. Your next 30 years will be living proof of this statement, for as the years roll by men and women from all walks of life will be confronting you and expressing their gratitude for some forgotten kindnesses you have rendered them in the past. You will always be made conscious as long as you live that the great task you dedicated your life to was not undertaken in vain.

Character Is Fundamental

The map on which Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson charted his 29-year career as president of Gettysburg College was described by him in his inaugural address, delivered in a large tent on the college campus October 19, 1923. These were his words:

"The world stands before the door of the American college asking, not, what are you teaching, what social advantages are you offering your students; not what special courses are you advertising in your catalogue, but—what are you doing in the building of virile, rugged, red-blooded manhood, which is passionately loyal to worthwhile ideals. . . . Considered from the individual point of view, the aim of education is the development of personality. . . . Facts are necessary. . . . They are to be communicated not as an end but rather as elements contributing, on the one hand, to mental appreciation and judgment, and on the other hand to mental stature and culture. . . . Education also is preparation for citizenship. In this age only he is fitted to serve who appreciates the importance of Christian ideals. . . . Character is fundamental, any institution which does not aim to cultivate character is failing in its noblest service."

"All the great things you have done in the past, sir, we feel were largely due to the inspiration, love, and understanding of your gracious wife and our wonderful campus mother. Her presence on campus has provided the quality of motherly love which none of us could do without, and thus has been responsible for a certain stable influence which has made our school so successful. We love her, sir, and are going to miss her very much.

"Words are always inadequate to express a true appreciation for so large a contribution to society. We would say a simple thank you, Mr. President, for all that you have done for us, and we promise you that we will maintain the same high quality and character that have surrounded our school since your inauguration here many years ago. You won't be forgotten.

"Gratefully yours,
"The Student Body."

It is believed that China had the oldest known system of public examinations used for selection of officers for public service.

Remodeled And Enlarged SCA Building On College Campus

ment program. That year thousands were spent on new stairways and other improvements in the interior of "Old Dorm" and Brua chapel was re-conditioned.

In December of that year contracts were let by the Board for erection of the Breidenbaugh Science hall and the Eddie Plank Memorial gymnasium. Breidenbaugh Science hall was occupied in the fall of 1927 as was the new gymnasium. In the summer of 1925 Memorial Field, west of the gym, was constructed and dedicated on Alumni Day to soldiers from Gettysburg College who gave their lives in World War I.

Late in 1928 work was begun on the new library building and it was opened December 1, 1929, on the site of Cottage Hall which had been razed.

In the summer and fall of 1929, 40-year-old Glatfelter Hall was completely remodeled and modernized at a cost of $125,000.

Campus improvements in the late twenties included the removal of a janitor's house north of the west end of Old Dorm and the erection of a new house for the janitor and the removal of the old McCreary gymnasium northeast of Old Dorm. The building had served as a chemical laboratory from 1890 until the new science hall was built. The SCA building was rebuilt after the fire and considerably enlarged.

More recently Hanson hall, dedicated last year as a memorial to Dr. and Mrs. Hanson, was erected; the Brua Chapel building was greatly enlarged, renovated and dedicated as the college's Fine Arts building and the cornerstone for the new Christ Chapel was laid. Steel work for that structure now places a new high point on the campus skyline.

Congratulations Dr. Hanson

Upon the tremendously successful completion of 29 years as president of Gettysburg College.

Eisenhower's College Visit Was Big Event

Nearly six years ago, on May 27, 1946, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, the erstwhile tank captain of World War I days at Camp Colt here, stood on the rostrum at the Majestic theatre, and delivered the commencement address to the graduating class of Gettysburg College.

This was no ordinary occasion for Gettysburg, for the college, the graduating class, the students, faculty or the community at large. The huge throngs which gathered in Carlisle street in front of the theatre for a glimpse of "Ike," hero of World War II, was a mute testimonial to the high esteem in which he was held.

High Point In Career

It no doubt marked a high point in the career of Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of the college, whose guest the general was, and whose introduction included these prophetic words:

"In a day of great crisis, God gave us Washington. In another great crisis He gave us Dwight D. Eisenhower, a Christian gentleman. No name will go down in American history more unswayed and more honored than his."

Prophetic, in the light of later events, when Eisenhower was called to head Columbia university; when he was re-called to head NATO in Europe, and in the past few weeks, called as the candidate of the people for President of the United States.

Modest General

The general's modesty was amazing. "What are all these people crowding the street for?" he asked Dr. Hanson. "They are here to catch a glimpse of you," the doctor replied. General and Mrs. Eisenhower, who were guests of Dr. and Mrs. Hanson at that 114th commencement, drove to Gettysburg from Washington in a pouring rain. The college conferred the honorary degree of doctor of laws on the general.

In his commencement address, General Eisenhower recalled that his paternal ancestors had lived for 130 years in Pennsylvania and his father was born in the state.

"It was in Gettysburg," the general said, "that I held, as a captain, my first independent command, and it was here that I first learned what home town support means to the soldier."

COLLEGE GIVEN WAR MEMENTOES

Maj. Gen. Charles A. Willoughby graduated from Gettysburg college in 1914, before Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson became president of the college, but General Willoughby never forgot his alma mater, a friendship which led later to a friendship with the college president.

It was this association which led, after World War II, General Willoughby to send to Gettysburg college a number of priceless war mementoes. The general was head of General Douglas MacArthur's intelligence section, during the war.

Among the gifts to the college was a Samurai sword, given up by a Japanese general on his surrender; a large map turned over by Japanese emissaries at the Manila surrender; a hand-colored copy of a map prepared by the Japanese war department for use of the Americans, and three boxes of monographs on every allied landing in the South Pacific, prepared by the intelligence section, which Gen. Willoughby headed.

Mrs. Hanson Worked Diligently For League

One of the phases of Gettysburg college life in which Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson has been most interested during her years at Gettysburg has been the activities of the Women's League.

But her active interest in that organization goes much farther back

Keeps Pledge

When Dr. Hanson accepted the presidency of Gettysburg college from Dr. William A. Granville, the retiring president, at induction exercises Friday, October 19, 1923, he said:

"Mr. President: I accept from your hands these symbols of office. In assuming the responsibilities connected with this office entrusted to me, I pledge to you my loyalty to the ideals and traditions of this institution. I shall to the best of my ability, endeavor to acquire myself as worthy of the confidence of the Board of Trustees of Gettysburg College. So Help me God."

Dr. Hanson has kept that pledge.

Hanson Joins Dollar Club

The president of Gettysburg college, upon whom many honors have been showered during the past 29 years, is a member of one of the most popular of Gettysburg clubs—The Dollar Club.

The club has no charter, no constitution or by-laws, no officers and no board of directors—but it does have dues—$1. The frequency with which dues are paid depends entirely on the individual member.

Membership is not limited. Anyone can join, and hundreds belong. The only requirement is to have a borough police officer place the badge of membership on the windshield of an automobile.

This badge, a red card, upon payment of $1 dues, entitles the holder to a certificate from the burgess, in the form of a receipt for payment of the parking fine.

Dr. Hanson was one of the early members of the club, and renews his membership from time to time.

"OVER THE TOP"

When Gettysburg college conducted its expansion drive for $600,000 in 1947, Gettysburg and Adams County business interests and residents were the first group to go "over the top" with donations totaling more than $60,000.

than her years as a Gettysburg resident, for when the general league was re-organized in 1911, Mrs. Hanson was chosen as the second vice president, later becoming its president. In 1911 Dr. and Mrs. Hanson were residents of Pittsburgh where he was pastor of St. Luke's church.

The first great monument to the service of the League was the YMCA building (now the SCA) which was built largely with funds raised by the League and was dedicated in 1922.

Hansons Start Mother's And Father's Day

The Hansons were responsible for an innovation which was a first among colleges in the United States, when Dr. and Mrs. Henry W. A. Hanson first came to Gettysburg.

This was the establishment of Mother's day and Father's day week-ends at the college. Prior to this time, many colleges had held patrons or parents days at their respective institutions, but it remained for the Hansons to take special recognition of the mothers and fathers.

The year was 1925 when the first of these two events was held. Mrs. Hanson gives all the credit to her husband. "The idea was Dr. Hanson's," she says, and adds "but I co-operated."

Using another quote, Mrs. Hanson says "I worked like a dog." It was Mrs. Hanson who arranged and held the receptions at the "White House." Members of the faculty assisted.

"I have entertained as many as 400 to 500 in my home in the short space of two hours," Mrs. Hanson says.

There was plenty of work to such a reception even back in those earlier days when the enrollment at the college was approximately 450. The receptions are continued, however, in spite of the greatly increased enrollment, now about 1,200, but the banquets which were held in the gymnasium have been discontinued.

Mother's and Father's week-ends were discontinued during the war. "The parents couldn't get gasoline during the war to come to the college," Mrs. Hanson says, "and of course most of the boys were not in college. They were in the service, fighting for their country."

Mother's day week-end is held nearest to Mother's day in May, and Father's day in October.

Scotchman Praises Dr. Hanson As Orator

Dr. Henry W. A. Hanson, president of Gettysburg college, has received many compliments on his ability as a speaker, but the nicest tribute was written in 1923 when H. Lightbody, general secretary of the Scottish National council of the YWCA, wrote in the Scottish magazine, "The Record," of his tour to America:

"In the afternoon of that day I heard a really great address, the finest utterance I listened to in America." The speech to which Mr. Lightbody was referring was a Reformation day talk given in Washington by Doctor Hanson. Lightbody also observed that Doctor Hanson "held his large audience hushed by real eloquence and passionate sincerity."

Vets' "Ag" Classes Visit Block Farm

Members of the veterans' agriculture classes taught by Frederick Block and Daniel Paddock Wednesday night visited the Pigeon Hills Poultry Farm and Hatchery, Abbotstown R. 1, for a joint class session and tour. The farm is owned by Block and operated by him and Robert E. Crouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Crouse, New Oxford. After being shown a hatch of ducklings, and groups of goslings and chicks the class took part in a discussion of pullet management. Paddock spoke on the use of feeds to develop strong layers and a sound sanitation program. Block told the group that good layers, if managed efficiently, will provide a profit despite the current depressed market for eggs.

CHRIST'S STANDARD OF MORAL PURITY

Exodus 20:14; Matthew 5:27-32; Mark 10:2-12.

Memory Verse: "Thou shalt not commit adultery." Exodus 20:14.

The commandment "Thou shalt not commit adultery," like all of the ten given through Moses, is basic for correct living at all times. However it seems to be pointedly directed to our generation. There are many evidences that the relation between the sexes has deteriorated to an alarmingly low degree. Writers of ability, as well as others, give the subject constant treatment. Distressing incidents appear in the news. The recent escapades of college boys have added to the general picture. A charitable view of the whole matter might be that things are no worse than at other times; they are merely brought out into the open. Whatever one may conclude it remains that in the light of God's command the situation is alarming. The Christian will look at it seriously.

A few lessons back we discussed "Our Family Heritage." Our present texts have a direct bearing on that. Male and female were created that the race would be continued and the family life enriched. One man and one woman, faithful to each other in their sex relationship, were meant to be the basis of this arrangement. It was to continue for life. But it was often disrupted and divorce was permitted by Moses. The causes of the divorce were various. Jesus commented on the practice of divorce when questioned by the Pharisees. He set the highest standard known. A married man's faithfulness to his wife supercedes loyalty to his parents. He and his wife "shall become one." To this He added the well known, if not always obeyed command, "What therefore God has joined together, let not man put asunder."

The Christian Church has endeavored to hold to this high command relative to divorce. Adultery or malicious desertion are generally accepted as legitimate causes for divorce. In some sections of the church the rules are more or less strict. The attempt has been to keep the marriage vows unbroken and the family intact. Even among members of the church the effort has not been entirely successful as statistics reveal. Outside the church the teachings of Jesus are lightly considered and flouted. Shattered homes have been the cause of numerous social problems. The ill effects have been upon parents and children alike. Homes should be nurseries of affection and fidelity.

But moral purity is expected of the unmarried as well as of those who have taken the marriage vows. Here we enter the larger field of sex relations. Every one is involved. The range is all the way from pure love to consuming lust. For many a youth and adult it is a moral battlefield where the higher and lower passions contend for mastery.

It is well to acknowledge this contest and deal wisely with the competing desires. One should remember that sex was created by God and is consequently not evil in itself. When God created man freedom of will was given him. It is possible for man to be in control of his cravings. He should be able to distinguish between the good and evil impulses and act only upon the good. In this he can draw upon moral and spiritual power available from the highest source. Temptations will come but need not be permitted to settle themselves in one's life and dictate one's behavior.

In His Sermon on the Mount Jesus spoke forcefully about adultery. He condemned not only the act but even the thought. "One who looks at a woman lustfully has already committed adultery," He said. That goes to the roots. What we think of with a desire to have may control our actions and, if not, the wrong has already been done to oneself merely by entertaining a sinful desire.

Why God created man and woman as they are is beyond our perfect knowledge. Evidently they needed one another for He said: "It is not good for man to be alone."

Those who are ready

Alert, keen, with eager steps and heads held high in confidence to meet the future, our graduates stream out from the portals of high schools, colleges, and universities. A new life of opportunity commences today for all who have received their diplomas. But are they ready for life? Schools, although of great value to any youngster, cannot guarantee success. A diploma simply states a required course of study for a specific degree has been satisfactorily completed. In addition to formal schooling our young people must have a more complete preparation with which to face the challenges and disappointments of life. They need the Church and home working together to strengthen their moral and spiritual fibre. Yes, with this combination—school, Church, and home, they will receive that inner strength and trust in God to face life's problems unafraid.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

STUDENT DAYS AT LHS ENDED FOR 53 SENIORS

Fifty-three boys and girls were presented with diplomas of graduation from the Littlestown High School at the 39th annual commencement exercises Thursday evening. High school life for this year's graduating class was begun on September 11, 1948, when a group of about 85 boys and girls entered the halls of L.H.S. The year was highlighted with a visit to the "Freedom Train" in Gettysburg, the trip to Harrisburg and Hershey, and the school picnic. The school rings were received that year.

In the fall, when the group returned to L.H.S., the class was well represented in the underclassmen's play, "The Uncertain Age," in athletic and musical organizations, and on the staff of the school paper, "The Littlestown Echo." The class was taken on a tour of the community's new sewage disposal plant, and the group enjoyed the privilege of attending the school Christmas dance. Class rings were ordered and the 1949-50 term concluded with the high

Undergraduate Events

The juniors received their class rings early in their third year. The members of the class participated in many extra-curricular activities, such as attending the career conference at Gettysburg College, being represented in district and state chorus and district band, in athletic and musical presentations of the school. The Junior Class play that year was "Our Miss Brooks." The Junior-Senior Prom was the social highlight of that year.

As seniors, the group has decreased in number. Eight senior members of the Lambda Tau Chapter of the National Honor Society journeyed to New York City for a memorable visit. An entirely new decorative scheme was used for the presentation of the annual Senior Class play, "Nine Girls," in November. For the first time at the high school, the class sponsored a public dinner to help raise funds for the class trip. A Dutch garden was the theme of the decorations used for the annual prom. A tea was recently held in honor of the seniors with the members of the school faculty as invited guests. The affair took place in the school cafeteria. The annual trip for the graduating class took place last week when two days were spent in Washington, D. C., where the group was taken on an educational excursion of the nation's capital.

Yearbook Is Out

The officers of the class of '52 are: President, Victor Reynolds; vice president, Marie Basehoar; secretary, Nancy Renner; treasurer, Myrtle Good; representatives, Betty Yealy and Ferree LeFevre, and historian, Brenda Hess.

COUNCIL ADOPTS TRAFFIC RULES AT LITTLESTOWN

A new traffic and parking ordinance was adopted by the Littlestown Borough Council Tuesday evening. The ordinance makes it unlawful to park or leave standing at any time any vehicle on the east side of Maple Ave. between East King St. and E. Myrtle St., or on the south side of Locust St. between N. Queen St. and Maple Ave. Violators are subject to a fine of from $1 to $10 and costs, and in default of payment, imprisonment for not more than 10 days. The burgess is authorized and directed to paint all curbs, and to purchase, erect and maintain signs. Lumber St., from S. Queen St. to the borough limits, is designated as a through street.

The president, Roscoe W. Rittase, presided at the session. The secretary's report was presented by Roger J. Keefe. A communication received from the Littlestown Chamber of Commerce relative to the salary paid to Chief of Police Albert H. Miller Jr., the resignation of Chief Miller and the appointment of another man was read. In the communication reference was made to $2,400 as not being an adequate salary for the police chief, and that they were informed that a man could be obtained for $2,200 because he is receiving a pension from a former job. A general discussion followed and the secretary was instructed to recognize the chamber's letter by communicating the facts relative to the resignation of Mr. Miller and the appointment of Melvin H. Swab of Elizabethtown, Pa., as the new chief of police.

Starts Work June 1

Mr. Swab, it was pointed out, was an applicant for the position at the time Mr. Miller was appointed in March, 1951, had been contacted before Mr. Miller's resignation was accepted. An interview was held on May 18, and Mr. Swab was offered the position at a salary of $3,000, plus an annual clothing allowance of $60 after the first year, the salary to include all expenses of a car to be furnished by Mr. Swab. It was understood that the borough would supply the first uniform. Mr. Swab accepted the position and attended the Tuesday meeting, when he was formally introduced. He will assume his work on June 1.

A discussion was held on the condition of "M" and West Myrtle Sts., which were resurfaced last fall and have been "bleeding" since the warm weather. It was agreed that when the resurfacing was done too much bituminous material was used. The street commissioner was instructed to apply more stone, and the secretary will contact a representative of the Lansdell Co. on furnishing the required materials.

The secretary informed council that Mrs. George W. Walters suggested that a new sidewalk be laid on her property by the borough, adding the cost to her taxes. Borough Solicitor Daniel E. Teeter gave an opinion that the borough could not legally do this without complying with the legal notice given for the property holders to construct their sidewalks, and in the event that this notice was not complied with, the borough would do the work, add the ten per cent penalty and costs and subject the property to a lien. The secretary was instructed to consult with Mrs. Walters on the matter.

Secretary Keefe said that Thomas C. McSherry had been contacted relative to improving James St. and contended that since the street improvement did not continue from James Ave. to West Myrtle St. it would be useless for him to construct sidewalks and curbs. It was also explained that Harrison F. Snyder, Prince St., where no curbing exists, has been notified to construct a sidewalk and curb. Mr. Snyder had verbally agreed to construct the curbing within 30 days. After further discussion, Council agreed to construct James Ave. to the limit of the present improvements and will require Mr. Snyder to construct only his curbing on Prince St. at the present time.

The secretary was authorized to notify the Metropolitan Edison Co. to start installation of underground wiring for street lighting on Prince St. A release was submitted by the Atlantic Refining Co., 302 Queen St.

Albert E. Boyd, 107 Crouse Park, informed council that, at the time a sewer lateral was placed at his property, it was "apparently" laid to an open lot, and would not be satisfactory to connect to his dwelling. Mr. Keefe explained how the sewer lines had been laid, and said that a lateral could be placed by putting in a "Y." The cost of placing the lateral will be borne by the borough.

The Council then discussed the recommendation of the Littlestown Borough Authority that the Council comply with the trust indenture by having an appraisal made of the Sewage Treatment plant, equipment and pumping station for the purpose of purchasing adequate fire and extended coverage insurance which was a requirement under the indenture. At a recent meeting of the board information was received from the engineering firm of Albright and Friel, Inc., the consulting engineers, to the effect that approximate estimated figures of $97,000 on the digester, laboratory and pumping station buildings and $30,000 on all equipment in the buildings could be used in purchasing insurance coverages. However, since these figures were close to present-day values, it would be advisable to have a specific appraisal to determine the true value in order that insurance could be purchased accordingly on the 80 per cent reduced rate contribution clause basis in order that a saving be made on the rates. A communication was also received from Albright and Friel, Inc., relative to the physical and financial possibilities of extending the sewer main from proposed Windsor St. along the proposed Maple Ave. to the Littlestown Manufacturing Company's proposed new factory building. The secretary will employ the engineering firm to make the appraisal.

One bid was received from the construction of James Ave. from West King St. to West Myrtle St. and Prince St. from the proposed Windsor St. to the Bonneville Rd. The bid was from Rife, Inc., Hanover, and the contract was awarded to this firm. Committees from the School Board and the Council will meet June 2 to discuss repairs to a fence between the property of Luther D. Patterson and the Alpha Fire Company. The fence was originally constructed by Mr. Patterson and was damaged by school children.

A petition bearing the signatures of 49 residents of Lumber St. and vicinity was presented, protesting against grease and smoke particles from the Keystone Cabinet Company. The complaint said the smoke "ruins" clothing and defaces property. The matter was referred to the Safety Committee and the borough solicitor for further investigation.

The question of sending firemen to the fire school at Lewistown in August was referred to the Finance Committee. The company desired to know the number of men council would send for schooling along with those to be sent by the company. The cost for the trip is $75 per member.

Borough fund expenditures for May were $4,281.29; water fund expenditures $396.99; sanitary sewer fund expenditures, $377.49; a total of $5,555.77. Treasurer John H. Flickinger reported that the total receipts for the month amounted to $469.78.

Water permits were issued to the following: Lloyd R. Humbert, 417 E. King St., and Joseph P. Long, 433 Prince St. Building permits were granted to the following: James R. Slick, 425 S. Queen St., to paint or repair two-story frame dwelling; Noah V. Brown, 140 Lumber St., to remove shade tree; Lester W. Harner, 103 Charles St., to paint and repair two-story frame dwelling at 103-105 Charles St.; William H. Dixon, 40 W. King St., to relay sidewalk at 40 N. Queen St.; Ralph H. DeHoff, 46 Lumber St., to paint and repair two-story dwelling; Samuel A. Harnish, 29 W. King St., to remodel two-story frame, metal roof garage or storage building for electrical repair shop, 21 Charles St.; Emerson F. Muller, 116 Lumber St., to cement basement of two-story frame dwelling; Herbert J. Motter, 75 W. King St., to construct sidewalk 5 feet wide on James Ave.; I. D. Crouse and Son, 19-25 Lumber

BOY SCOUT DRIVE BRINGS IN $350

Three hundred and fifty dollars was realized through the house-to-house canvass in the annual financial drive for funds for the local Boy Scouts. The drive, conducted in the community last Friday, was co-sponsored by the Littlestown Rotary and Lions Clubs. It is expected to reach the goal set by additional contributions to be made by the local civic organizations.

Members of Boy Scout Troop No. 84 will meet on Monday evening in St. John's grove, near town, for more tent pitching practice. The practice is being held in preparation for the troop to participate in the Boy Scout Circus at the York fairgrounds on Thursday, June 12. The circus is open to the public. Tickets are being sold by the scouts. Next Wednesday at 4 o'clock a group of boys will go canoeing. Scout James Hahn will name the patrol to go. The regular troop meeting will be next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the basement of the Littlestown State Bank building. Plans for summer activities will be made. Advancement camp will be held at Camp Conewago on Saturday and Sunday, June 7 and 8. A canoe trip on the Susquehanna River is tentatively planned for June 24, 25 and 26. The big summer camp for the local Boy Scouts will be held sometime in July. Some improvements are now being made to the camp. It is expected to erect the bridge again this summer.

Personal Mention

Mrs. Marion S. Huey, South Queen St., has returned to her home after visiting with Dr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Richards Jr., New Haven, Conn., former residents of the community.

Miss Emily Badders, a student at Church Home and Hospital, Baltimore, spent Tuesday visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry W. Badders, Lumber St. Miss Badders, her parents and sister, Emily, attended the commencement exercises at the Littlestown High School Tuesday evening, when her twin brothers, Charles and Harry III, were graduated. Also present were their cousin, Miss Brenda K. Walker, a member of the nursing staff of Church Home and Hospital, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira B. Yeagle, Baltimore.

Harold Gerrie, a student at Millersville State Teachers' College, is spending the summer vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gerrie, and family, Kingsdale, near town.

Mark Memorial Day

The Woman's Community Club of Littlestown and vicinity will hold a tea in honor of the girls from this year's graduating class of the Littlestown High School on Saturday afternoon from 2:30 to 4:30 o'clock in the POS of a hall, East King St. The Youth Conservation Committee in charge of arrangements is composed of Mrs. Robert H. Miller, chairman, Mrs. Beavon Hanlon, Mrs. Charles E. Rabenstein, Mrs. Robert Eckenrode, Mrs. Richard A. Maitland, Mrs. Howard Myers, Mrs. Donald C. Feeser, Mrs. Carroll E. Arter and Mrs. John D. Basehoar. Club members desiring to donate refreshments for the tea are requested to contact Mrs. Rabenstein.

St., to erect a metal display neon sign at 19-25 Lumber St. J. Stanley Baker, co-owner of the Towne Theater, asked council whether it would be agreeable for the movie house to adopt two nights each week during the summer months to be known as "Family Nights." The matter, involving the borough admissions tax, was referred to Solicitor Teeter.

Those in attendance at the meeting included President Rittase, Councilmen Vernon C. Reaver, Lewis H. Fox, Harry T. Harner, James V. Yingling and Charles M. Frock, Burgess Herbert Motter, Treasurer John H. Flickinger, Secretary Roger J. Keefe, the newly appointed chief of police, Melvin H. Swab, Albert E. Boyd and Joseph H. Rife, Hanover.

A Memorial Day program was presented in charge of the Fellowship and Attendance Committee headed by A. W. Schott at the meeting of the Littlestown Rotary Club on Tuesday evening at Schott's Hotel. Chairman A. W. Schott presided. Rotarian Paul E. King read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. Roy D. Knouse gave a talk in keeping with Memorial Day. Mr. Knouse spoke about the responsibilities of the present generation and the liberties which our forefathers handed down to us. The Rev. Sidney S. Smith, a charter member of the club and a present member of the Northampton Club, was present.

During the business session the president-elect, Theron W. Spangler, presided in the absence of the president, Charles E. Ritter. The birthdays of the following members were noted, L. Robert Snyder, J. Ray Reinhold, Nevaeh A. Crouse, Walter F. Crouse, Richard A. Little, Edward T. Richardson Jr. and Thomas C. McSherry. A report was given on the recent financial drive for the local Boy Scouts. A thank-you note was read from the local school patrols in expression of appreciation to the Rotary Club which co-sponsored the group to the Washington School Patrol Convention, held recently. The Classification and Membership Committee composed of Dr. Joseph R. Riden, chairman, William V. Sneringer, Luther W. Ritter and Clyde W. Crouse, will be in charge of the program at the regular meeting next Tuesday evening at 6:15 o'clock at Schott's. A club outing will be featured for the meeting of Tuesday, June 11, on the grounds of the Kingsdale Fire Company, near town, along the Littlestown-Taneytown Road. Arrangements for the outing will be in charge of the Program Committee, Dr. William H. Marshman, chairman.

Won't Televis TV Probe By Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—A congressional probe of radio and television programs starts next week, but it won't be broadcast or televised. Rep. Harris (D-Ark.), chairman of a House interstate subcommittee making the investigation, told newsmen Thursday he will not permit telecasting or broadcasting of committee hearings "because the House rules don't allow it."

The radio-TV probe will start Tuesday and will continue through Thursday. Initial witnesses will be members of Congress and interested civic groups and organizations.

Masked Youths Take Over Cornell Radio

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Ten masked youths overpowered three students at the Cornell University radio station Wednesday and broadcast a fake bulletin that European cities had been bombed and an air armada was approaching North America. A university official said the incident looked like a "practical joke."

The station, WVBR, was flooded with telephone calls after the broadcast. Some callers asked more information but many "called just to rib us," the station manager reported, and there appeared to be no widespread alarm.

R. J. McCarthy, Cornell supervisor of safety, said none of the raiders was recognized in their Halloween masks. He said they "probably were students."

"MOST LIKELY TO SUCCEED"

The class prophecy may have named those most likely to succeed, but all local graduates deserve much credit. They have passed an important milestone and are now better equipped for their chosen fields.

Never have communities, the nation, and the world been in greater need of responsible leadership. Those who complete their education this year have many opportunities to give practical application to knowledge they have gained.

To all graduates we extend congratulations. Wise management of money is one lesson all who would succeed must learn. An account here will prove helpful.

ARMED TROOPS BREAK UP POW DEMONSTRATION

KOJE ISLAND, Korea (P)—A Red prisoner was killed and another wounded Thursday in a disturbance in Compound 66 of the United Nations prisoner of war camp, a spokesman announced tonight.

The Reds began parading in the afternoon in the compound where 2,700 officers and 650 enlisted orderlies are held. At least 100 U. S. and British infantrymen entered the enclosure shortly after on orders of Col. Taylor, deputy commander of the United Nations Kojima Island prison camp.

Used Tear Gas
They broke up the demonstration with tear gas bombs and drove the Reds into the center of the compound.

disturbance in an attempt to force Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, camp commander, to visit the compound.

A spokesman added that Boatner received "a long, abusive, insulting, demanding letter" two days ago.

The general never answered it because the letter violated Boatner's rules that messages to him from POWs must be "brief, courteous and to the point."

Boatner also refused to go to the compound gated during the disturbance.

Suggest Larger Farm Show Setup

HARRISBURG (P)—An advisory committee has suggested enlarging eating facilities, dormitory space and commercial exhibit areas at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show. Miles Horst, State Agriculture Secretary and Farm Show Commission chairman, said the group of farm people met Wednesday with the commission but agreed to give the topics further study at a later meeting.

Horst said overcrowded conditions reached a critical point at the 1952 Farm Show last January attended by some 600,000 persons.

SALEM, Mass. (P)—Bruce Coffin, electronics executive who plays golf in the low 70's, has patented a golf tee that can be used as a pencil for writing a golfer's score for each hole. Coffin says each tee will last 36 holes.

Man Electrocuted After Car Crash

READING, Pa. (P)—Richard Carter, 30, of Reading, was electrocuted Wednesday when he walked into a power line after an automobile sheared off a pole along the Allentown Pike, at Kirbyville, north of here.

State police said Carter was riding in a car driven by John Root, 31, of Manheim, when it apparently ran off the highway and struck the pole, bearing a transformer and power line carrying 2,300 volts of electricity. Root was admitted to Community General Hospital with cuts, bruise burns and chest injuries, and Calvin Summers, 27, Reading, with bruise burns and fractured ribs.

Electric service in the area was disrupted for eight hours.

Bonneauville

BONNEAUVILLE — The following children from St. Joseph's parish received their first Holy Communion on Sunday morning at the 7:30 mass: Jeanette Hawn, Jane Weaver, Constance Smith, Grace Orndorff, Kathleen Stambaugh, Patricia Staub, Margaret Miller, Dorothy Storm, John Zimmerman, John Gallagher, Donald Storm, Gary Gabhart, Robert Clabaugh, John Senseney and Leo Hocken-smith.

The annual May Procession of the Parochial School children was held Sunday evening. Norma Shermeyer, as May Queen, assisted by the girls of the first Communion class as attendants, placed the crown on the Blessed Mother. The sermon and benediction concluded the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gebhart and family, York, visited Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gebhart Sunday.

Miss Anna Sneringer, Baltimore, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sneringer, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sanders spent Tuesday in Baltimore where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sneringer.
